Fifth Avenue Shops -:- In Panic As -:- Fire Follows Blast

FLAMES SHOOT ACROSS FIFTH AVENUE

Fifth avenue, from Wood to Market street, and Wood, from Oliver to Diamond street, were filled filled with fire engines, ladder trucks, chemical and hose apparatus when three alarms were sounded as flames shot across Fifth avenue from the Queen Quality Boot Shop, 235, Fifth avenue, presumably from an explosion. Firemen swarmed up the front and back ends of the Queen Quality store and of Reymers and Fischels, on either side, and had the fire under control within a short time.

SAVED BY FIREMEN

Aun unidentified man was carried down this ladder by firemen who found him on the fourth floor of the Reymer Building, trapped by smoke. Firemen went through every floor in search of possible victims.

GIRLS ESCAPE; FIREMEN HURT

Two firemen were injured and hundreds of persons in congested downtown Fifth avenue were menaced at 1:30 p. m. today when an explosion in the Queen Quality Boot Shop, 235 Fifth avenue, sent a sheet of flame through the store and across the traffic-filled street.

Employes and patrons of the store, along with hundreds of workers in the building and the adoining structures, occupied by Fishel's and Reymer's on the first floor, poured into the streets in a terror-stricken rush.

Diners in the Fishel and Reymer lunch roms, chiefly girls, fled as the force of the explosion shook the rooms. They left unfinished meals, hats, coats and purses behind them.

GIRLS FLEE REYMERS

A hundred girls, employed in the candy kitchens and bake shops of the confectionery stores on the upper floors of the buildings, fled down fire escapes in the rear.

Hundreds of other workers hurried from smoke-filled rooms by way of stairways, elevators and fire escapes.

Fifth avenue was jammed, as street cars and automobiles clogged the thoroughfares. Firemen, answering three alarms, encountered difficulty in getting to the burning structure.

TWO INJURED

The firemen burned are Thomas Thorlow, of No. 18 Engine Company, who suffered injuries to his hands and face, and was taken to the Mercy Hospital in a serious condition, and Charles Grimm, of the same company, less seriously burned, and taken home after treatment at the scene.

The flames, after sweeping through the shoe store, spread through an air shaft to the upper stories of the building, filling the rooms with smoke.

Firemen rescued on man from the fifth floor of the Reymer Building by placing a ladder against a window, where the trapped victim was leaning far out to escape suffocation.

Police roped off the block in Fifth avenue between Wood and Market streets, and with special squads sent from all parts of the city, kept back the crowds that fought to get to places of vantage to witness the spectacular blaze.

Chief Richard Smith estimated the damage at $10,000.

Girl Flees Fire, Leaving $500-- And Finds It!

When the Queen Quality Store explosion occurred this afternoon, Miss Eva Feldman, of Feldman Brothers Knit Goods Company, was dining in Fishel's. She had a leather case containing $500 of company money beside her.

Out went Miss Feldman and the money remained behind.

After the excitement—well Miss Feldman couldn't find the case.

More excitement—but Patrolman John Lavery found a clerk who had taken the case with the money and put it in a safe place.

Pgh. Man Dies Under Train

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Andrew Moss, 35, with letters in his pocket addressed to himself at general delivery, Pittsburgh, was killed here last night when both of his legs were cut off by an Erie passenger train.

Police believe that Moss threw himself between two of the cars of the train. Moss, well dressed and with $71 in his pockets, had bought a ticket to Pittsburgh. It was punched as he went through the station gate. He placed his baggage in one of the coaches and began to descend from the steps of the car as the train started. He fell between two of the cars and was dead when members of the train crew reached him. Moss' coat bore the label of a Pittsburgh dealer.

Pittsburgh police were informed by wire of Moss' death, but so far have been unable to locate any relatives. The inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Feb. 20.

IF YOU get a good piece of land and take care of it—anywhere in the march of American progress—that land will take care of you.

FOR instance: Yesterday Mrs. C. McLeod paid $35,000 for the Bender lot on Ventura boulevard, in Los Angeles—quite far out. She probably got a bargain. Eight years ago, the lot sold for $6,500. Sixteen years ago, a syndicate "taking a chance on Los Angeles' future" bought a lot of land including that lot, for FIFTY DOLLARS an ACRE. In 1867 the same land sold for thirty-seven and a half cents an acre.

BUT remember that some land now sold for fifty dollars an acre is not worth ten dollars. SEE what you buy, and know, for yourself, WHY you buy it, before you invest your money.

And remember that every American community has its great bargains and possibilities. If you cannot make good real estate investments where you are, you will probably make worse investments elsewhere.

THE former Kaiser, who must have done some hard thinking in the last few years, tells Sylvester Viereck "today the center of gravity which determines world power has shifted to the United

BARE DOPE'S GRIP HERE; ATTACK WOMAN SLEUTH

Coincident with the opening in The Sun-Telegraph today of an expose of the nation-wide traffic in narcotics, written by Winifred Black, nationally known feature writer, it was revealed that Mrs. Georgetta McClure, U. S. undercover agent in Pittsburgh, had been seriously burned by an acid thrower here as revenge for her activities in reporting the ramifications of the "dope" ring. The acid attack closely followed an anonymous ultimatum to Mrs. McClure to leave the city immediately.

Seeking revenge upon Mrs. Georgetta McClure, an undercover agent of the United States narcotic squad, a gang of alleged dope users and peddlers whose activities she had reported, it was revealed yesterday, were responsible for her being seriously burned by an acid thrower near her home in Arch street, North Side, two weeks ago, according to William T. Duffy, chief narcotic agent.

The woman has been confined to her home while agents under Duffy have been searching for the attacker who is thought to have left the city.

The "large and ferocious looking" man whom Mrs. McClure described as her attacker, is believed to have been brought to Pittsburgh by local dope peddlers to throw the acid upon the woman. A few days before the man stopped her in the street and splashed the acid in her

THE STORY OF THE LIVING DEAD—sounds sensational, doesn't it? Well, that's what they say over in Europe when they start discussing the American dope situation and the steady, inexorable, terrifying growth of the dope evil in this country year by year, month by month, day by day, almost hour by hour. Sounds like a bad dream, doesn't it?

What do the actual facts and figures show?

They show that the United States uses twice as much dope as France in proportion to the population, three times as much as England, four times as much as Germany, and eight times as much as Italy.

From a total purchase of 250 tons of crude opium used by licensed or authorized American manufacturers in the first 10 months of 1919, more than 35 tons of morphine were extracted.

One ton of morphine is all that

Open Fight To Make Y Pay Tax

The right of the Young Women's Christian Association to engage in the restaurant business without paying mercantile tax, was attacked in Common Pleas Court today before Judges James R. Macfarlane and T. J. Ford.

Attorney David Glick, appearing for the state, contended that the East Liberty branch and the downtown branch of the Y. W. C. A. each was operating a general lunchroom and that the 1926 tax, amounting to $93.10, had been unpaid.

Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, appearing for the association, declared that as a charitable association the organization was exempt from tax. Other suits affecting the Y. M. C. A. are scheduled for argument next week.

SENATE COAL PROBERS TO ARRIVE THURSDAY

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Plans for the Senate Interstate Commerce sub-committee for making a personal survey of conditions in the coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, as the first step in the comprehensive investigation ordered by the Senate last week, will be worked out here today at a meeting called for that purpose.

Senator Frank R. Gooding (Rep.) of Idaho, chairman of the special sub-committee, has announced that he and the four other members of the body will leave here Wednesday night for Pittsburgh instead of Tuesday as previously planned. Also it was stated that the investi-

It's Leap Year, So Wife Who Divorced Him Now "Proposes" to Frank Tinney

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.

FRANK TINNEY

MRS. EDNA DAVENPORT TINNEY, prior to leaving for Hollywood, where she expects to make her future home, has revealed that she has assumed the leap year prerogative and proposed to her former husband, Frank Tinney, one-time popular black-face comedian.

Mrs. Tinney, who was granted a divorce in March, 1926, said she has written to her former husband at Philadelphia, where he is convalescing at the home of his father, inviting him to go west with her.

"It's leap year," she said, "so I suppose I have a right to propose to him. In 1910 he begged me to marry him."

Mrs. Tinney is taking west with her their 10-year-old son, Frank Tinney, Jr., who, she says, is quite willing she marries again as long as she marries his father.

Voters Show 45 in Deer Counted Out

SAVED BY FATHER

MARGARET GIBSON

While returning to her home from a nearby grocery Saturday, Margaret Gibson, 16, of 2027 Laurel street, North Side, was attacked by a Negro, who had stalked her several blocks. He attempted to drag her into an alley, but the girl's screams attracted her father, and the man fled.

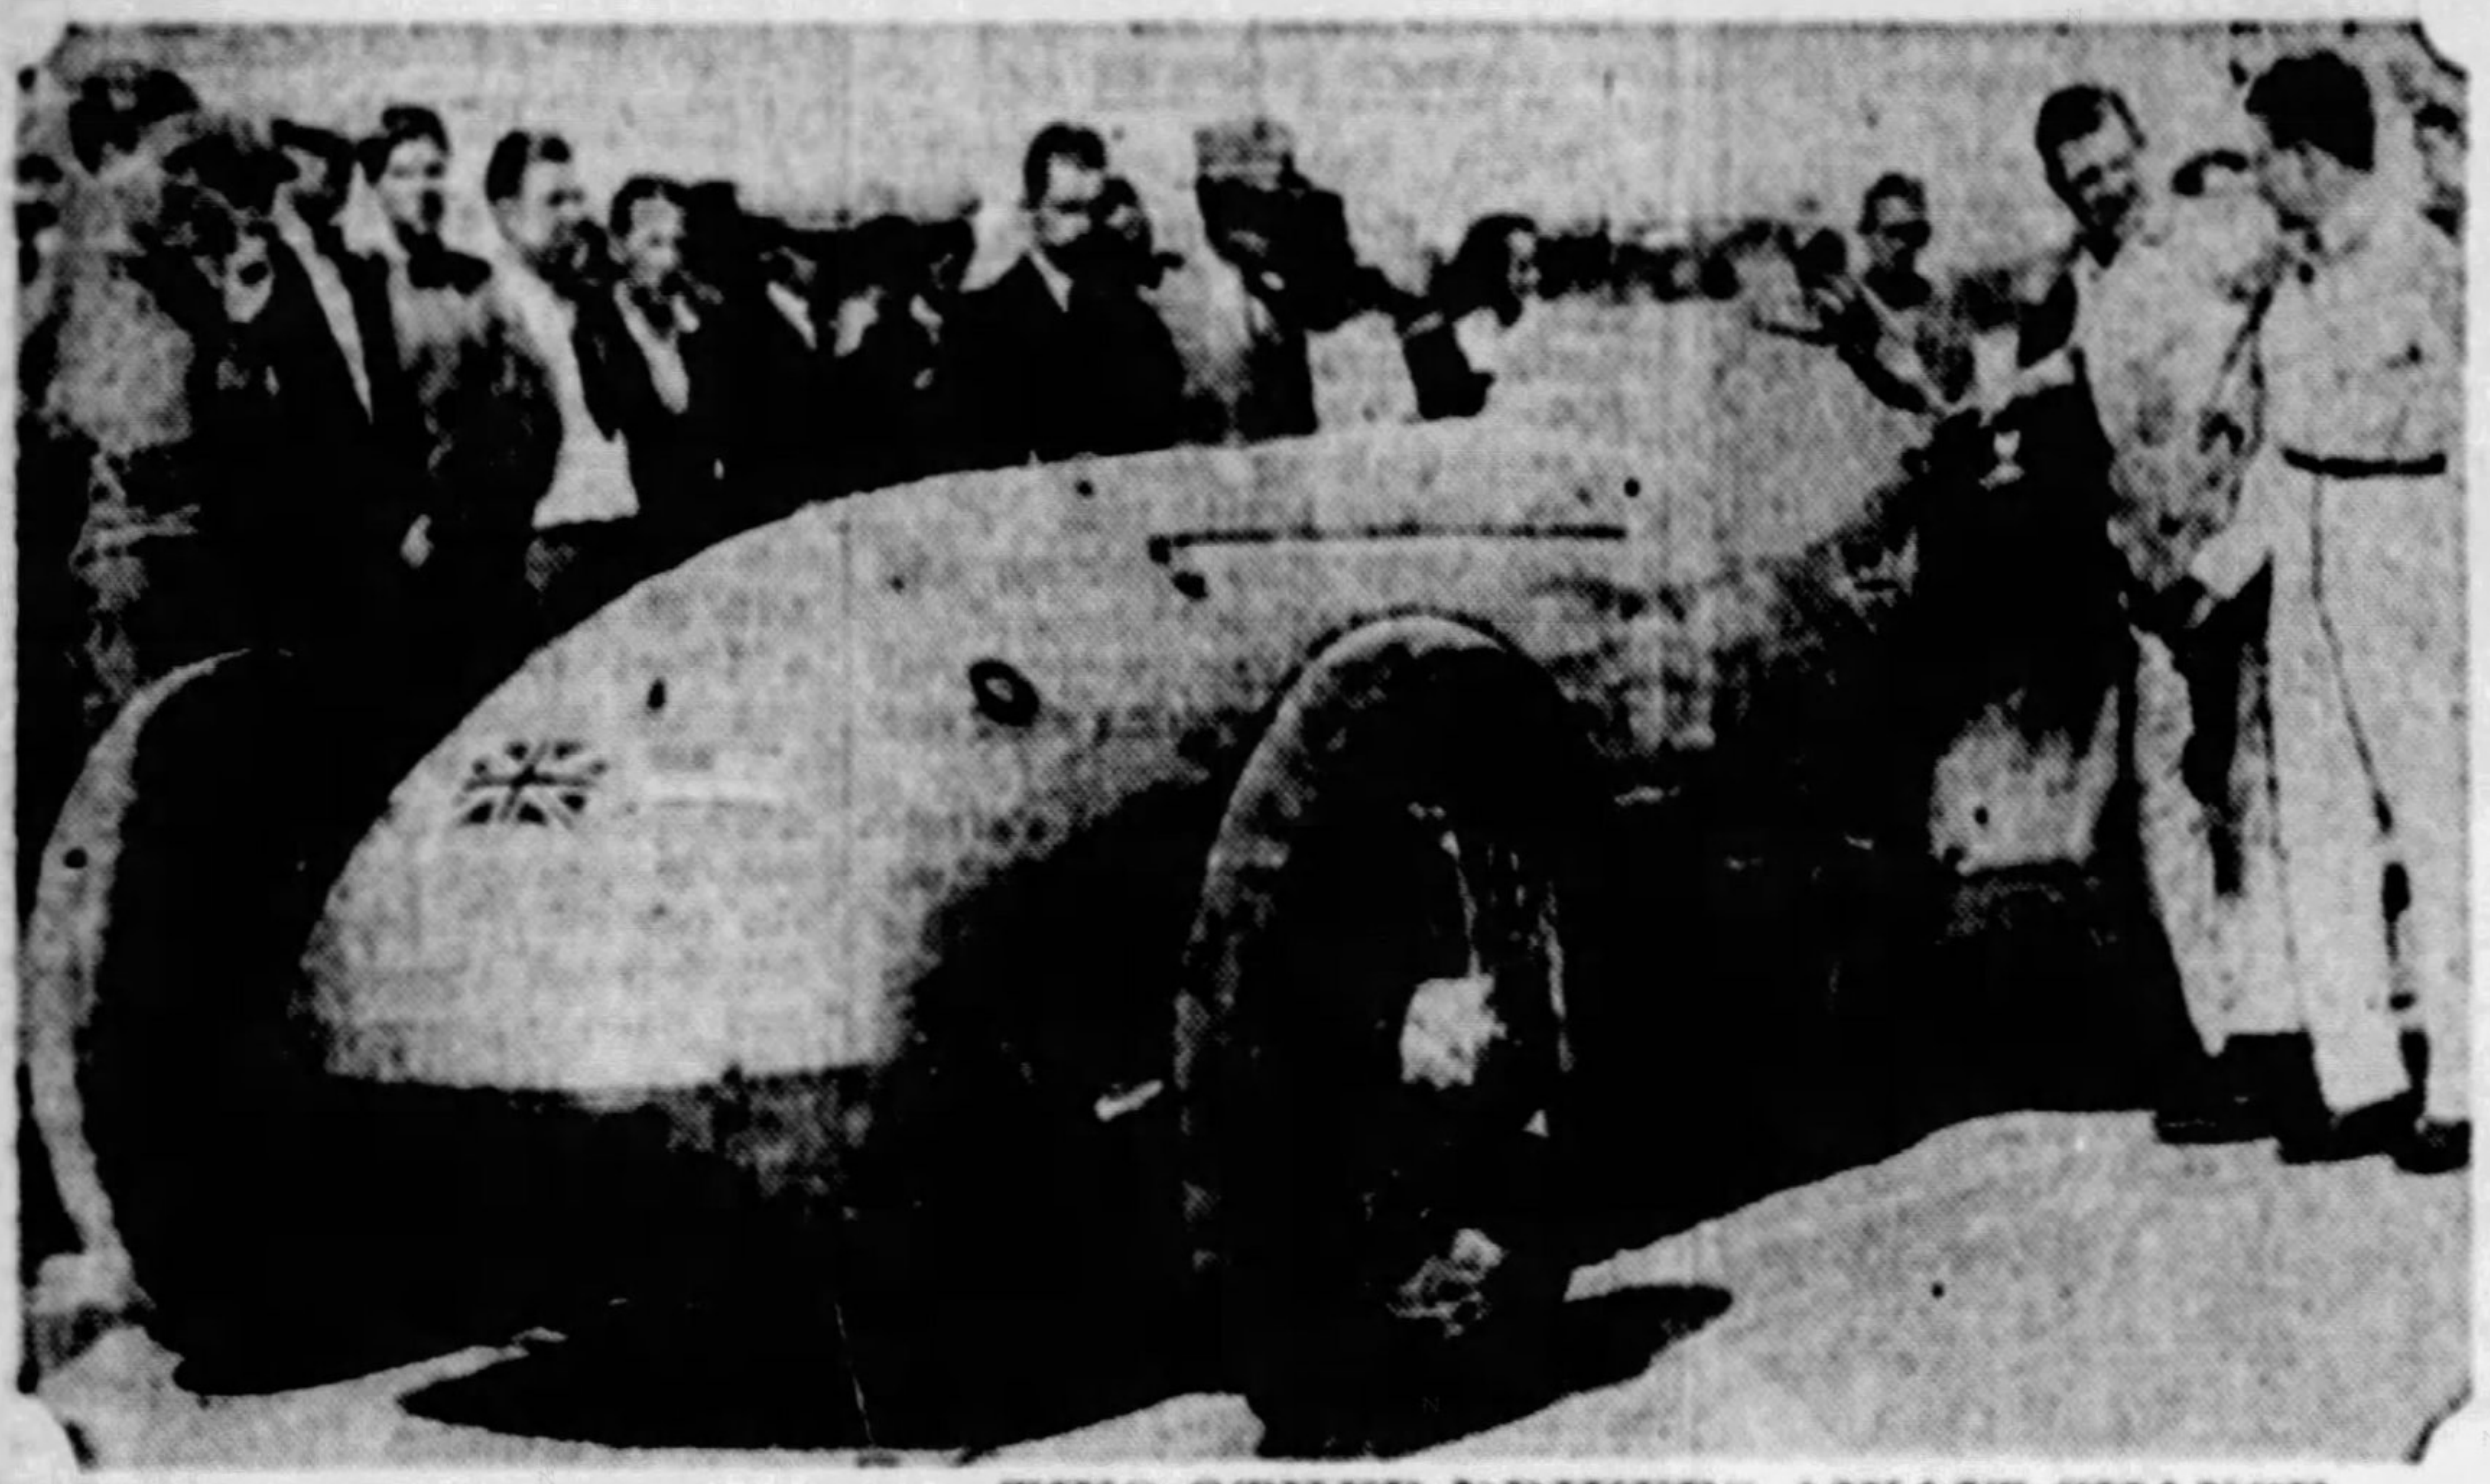
EVIDENCE OF FRAUD PILES UP

In support of allegations of fraud at the November election, 12 voters of the First Ward of East Deer township testified today in Quarter Sessions Court before Judge Ambrose B. Reid that they had voted the straight Citizens ticket, making a total of 105 voters giving such testimony since the hearing started last Thursday. Election records show but 60 straight Citizens ballots, it was alleged.

Three candidates for commissioners on the Citizens ticket were shown elected by the returns, but on a recount three Republican candidates were declared elected by the court, ousting the Citizens candidates. The contest seeks to have them reinstated, alleging that ballots were altered following the election. The Citizens candidates were James Flenner, Frank Holsher and John E. Hill, and the Republican candidates were Joseph Brim, Sam Vaia and Tony Altman. Contestants' counsel stated today that an examination of the ballots Saturday showed that 48 ballots marked straight Citizens also were marked for Republican commissioners.

Mrs. Sylvia Gernot and Mrs. R. K. Norman testified that Mrs. Pauline Patz, of Creighton, told them she and her husband, August Patz, had assisted Justice of the Peace John L. Gill of Creighton to change the ballots following the election. Mr. and Mrs. Patz admitted making statements to this effect in the District Attorney's office, January 26, but repudiated them at the hearing.

206.95-MILES-AN-HOUR RECORD SET BY CAMPBELL OVER FLORIDA SANDS



TWO OTHER DRIVERS AWAIT CHANCE

Capt. Malcolm Campbell yesterday set a new world's record for automobile speed when he sped his huge Napier Blue Bird special over the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., for an official record of 206.95 miles an hour. His greatest speed was 220 miles, he said. Campbell was near death when his machine hit a sand hump and nearly capsized while traveling at the teriffic speed. Two other drivers, Frank Lockhart, of Indianapolis, with a Black Hawk special, and J. M. White, of Philadelphia, with a 36-cylinder Triplex, are awaiting official sanction of attempts to set a still higher record.

CAPT. MALCOLM CAMPBELL

AUTOISTS TRAPPED IN SNOW

Trapped by drifting snow driven before a 40-mile gale, a score of motorists last night were marooned between Rocky Ridge and Morganza on the Pittsburgh and Washington highway.

Huge drifts closed the road shortly after the through motor coach on the White Star lines made its way from Morgantown, W. Va., on schedule time at 1:50 a. m. and within an hour a dozen cars were unable to proceed. So rapidly did the snow pile up that a force of men maintained by the bus line was unable to keep the road clear for more than a few minutes, whe the wind heaped up new drifts.

Buses from Washington early today reached Pittsburgh by detouring through Bridgeville and passengers on the Washington and McMurray roads were handled without delay by a "shuttle" service between Pittsburgh and Rocky Ridge. Heavy drifts delayed the school buses in all the townships on the southern border of this county and in some portions of Washington county.

Motorists caught in the storm sat in their cars until daylight and then breakfasted at farmhouses before undertaking fresh efforts to get their cars out of the drifts. Some cars whose drivers attempted to turn in the highway were hopelessly ditched and farmers' teams were called to pull them out.

EDUCATION DRIVE THIS WEEK SHOWS EXTENT OF DRUGS

This is Narcotic Education week, in which the people of the entire country will be made to realize the hold narcotic drugs have upon a section of the population estimated at from 1,000,000 to 1,400,000.

The World Conference on Narcotic Education sponsors the week. Facts to be presented by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers have been assembled from the men and sources most conversant with the subject.

Few men or women who have any knowledge of narcotics now remain unconvinced that the public needs to have placed before it as never before the veils of narcotic addiction.

The World Conference on Narcotic Education and its associated organization, the World Defense Association, have adopted concrete plans to combat the spread of addiction and to stamp it out where already established. The organization works with officials of national, state and municipal agencies.

THAW'S BLONDE LANDS STAR ROLE IN FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—The blonde half of Harry K. Thaw's much publicized protege team recently brought to Hollywood to break down the citadel of movieland has crashed the magic gates.

Anita Pomares, or Rivers, as Mr. Thaw rechristened her for her screen career, has landed a very nice job as William Haines' leading lady in "He Learned About Women," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

The brunette half of the Thaw team, Susan Hughes, returned to New York with Mr. Thaw after a futile effort to get herself any sort of a movie role. Mr. Thaw found out that even a millionaire cannot break down the walls of movieland unless he has something the movies really want.

They wanted Anita Rivers. In fact, they wanted her so much that she had three or four offers before she finally decided to accept a part in Bill Haines' picture.

Miss Rivers, who is a blonde that any gentlemen would prefer, was accompanied west by her mother. This chaperonage was made evident when mother never left daughter's side. Mother still remains with daughter.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer were so delighted with the tests made of the young lady that it looks very much as if there will be a contract forthcoming after the Haines picture.

Again she will have a new name. Mr. Thaw's nom de plume of Anita Rivers will be discarded, and Ann Page substituted as more dignified and less theatrical.

One look at this latest discovery with her Helen of Troy physiognomy, and her career seems to be assured. Of course, her future at present is on the knees of the gods but M. G. M. seldom sign young women without a good reason.

Vote Bible Teacher 'In' Again

One hundred members of the Callender Men's Bible Class of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday voted to reinstate Dr. T. Morton Sankey as their class teacher in spite of the fact that he had been ousted from that position some time ago by Sunday school officers.

The class disregarded the notice that Attorney Harry E. Carmack had accepted an invitation, extended by Sunday school officers, to teach the class. Dr. Sankey was the speaker yesterday and Attorney Carmack did not appear in the class room.

No immediate action is expected from Dr. S. W. Bell, pastor, and V. R. Covell, Sunday School superintendent, who are said to be responsible for the "ousting" of Dr. Sankey. The case will be brought before the meeting of the quarterly conference February 29, according to Dr. Jacob S. Payton, district conference superintendent. The action of the class in reinstating Dr. Sankey indicates that they are ignoring the threat of the pastor that the full church discipline would be inflicted.

Fish and Game Men Feed Birds in 8-Inch Snow

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 20. —The Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Association was operating extensively through the mountains in this section today, putting out feed to take care of the birds while the ground is covered with the heaviest snow of the season. There was an eight-inch fall in the city and close to a foot was reported in the mountains. The birds are in good condition, it was said, and there is a plentiful supply of feed available for them.

Porter Urges U. S. Dope Addict Farms

CITES NEED FOR QUICK ACTION

By STEPHEN G. PORTER,
Member of Congress from Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. —I will introduce today a bill to establish two United States narcotic farms for the cure and treatment of persons now confined in Federal prisons who are addicted to the use of habit-forming narcotic drugs. The bill also provides that addicts who are not Federal prisoners may be admitted if facilities are available and permits the states to board addicts who have violated their laws at a Federal narcotic farm.

President Coolidge in his message to the Congress of December 6, 1923, said:

"The national government has never given adequate attention to its prison problems. It ought to provide employment in such forms of production as can be used by the government, though not sold to the public in competition with private business, for all persons who can be placed at work and for which they should receive a reasonable compensation, available for their dependents."

He recommended at that time also the establishment of two independent reformatories, one for men and one for women.

My proposal to establish two farms for the confinement of addicts who have violated some Federal statute is in line with the President's suggestion that the Federal government give more attention to its penal problems.

The Federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth are now greatly overcrowded. The combined normal capacity of these institutions is about 3,000, and they now house more than 6,000 men. The combined population of Atlanta and Leavenworth has at times reached as high as 6,500. Since 1915 the average number of Federal prisoners in confinement has increased nearly fourfold. I cannot give the reason for this expansion other than to say that the prohibition act, the Harrison narcotic act and the Dyer automobile theft act have, of course, had an important effect.

I believe that in view of the imperative need for relieving the sadly overburdened facilities of the prisons and the promiscuous overcrowding which encourages the recruiting of narcotic addicts and the general lowering of the standards of the better men, the government should establish immediately a narcotic farm and take the 2,000 to 2,200 men who are addicted to habit-forming drugs out of the Federal prisons.

A prison is no place to treat men who are afflicted with a disease. The medical profession now agrees that narcotic addiction is a disease which afflicts honest, intelligent people in all walks of life. Often addicts are victims of misfortune over which they have no control. The drug is often administered by a reliable physician at a time when a person is suffering some great pain as the only means of saving his life. That person, unless carefully treated, is apt to become a confirmed addict who is powerless to discontinue the use of the drug.

DISEASE NOT VICE

The public has, in some cases, misconstrued addiction as being merely a vice which a man with a sufficient amount of moral fibre and mental stamina could overcome. It is rather a disease against whose ravages the addict is helpless unless he can be given careful and scientific treatment in a specialized institution for a considerable period of time, extending in some cases over a period of two, three or even four years.

The establishment of narcotic farms would, in my opinion, not only go a long way toward relieving the congestion in Federal prisons, but would also operate to reduce crime, since nearly 50 per cent of the men who leave prison return again to their former activities. How is it possible for an addict to go straight if he is turned out of prison with a gnawing appetite for a drug which costs him from $4 to $8 a day and with no money to buy it? The addict who has no money to buy or cannot secure his drug is a menace to society. We ought to get to the seat of the infection and remove the cause for crime.

I hope the proposed Federal institution will be a model for states to follow and that each of the larger states will construct similar institutions. For that reason I include in the bill a section which would require the Federal government to give each state the benefit of its experience. Model institutions should be stablished in convenient locations where the patients can have wholesome outdoor exercise and stimulating employment during the period of their convalescence.

DESERTED CHILDREN FOUND

Living in unheated, almost bare rooms, with scarcely anything to eat, four children, the eldest 15, deserted by their mother three weeks ago, were discovered by Capt. Anthony Black and Police Lieut. Robert McIntosh late last night in dire circumstances, at 2010 Preble avenue, North Side, and taken to the North Side Police Statoin.

Mary Deloquila, 15; Joseph Dalvo, 14; Frances Dalvo, 11, and Tony Dalvo, 10, the children, said their mother, Mrs. Mary Dalvo, had left them three weeks ago and gone to Follansbee, W. Va.

After a night in the matron's department of the North Side Police Station, the children were removed to Juvenile Court detention rooms, Oakland, this morning.

Capt. Black and Lieut. McIntosh said all of the children were suffering from cold and lack of food, having subsisted for several days on flour and water. An effort is being made to locate Mrs. Dalvo.

SINISTER GRIP OF DOPE RING HERE BARED

LINK 'FIEND CRIME' TO DRUGS

could be legally prescribed in that time.

During this short period we imported 10 times more crude opium than the combined populations of Germany, France and Italy—these are not imaginary statistics dreamed in a vision, they are plain, actual every-day figures taken from plain, actual every-day government reports.

Enough for U. S.

And that isn't counting the contraband dope at all. That's simply counting the regularly imported narcotic. What the score would be if the smuggled dope were to be counted, no human being can estimate, for of course the legal narcotics are only about an eighth of the narcotics used.

Add up these figures and you will find that there are eight grains per capita of dope for every man, woman and child in the United States. If that narcotic were given in the usual medical dose of one-eighth of a grain each, it would be enough to keep every man, woman and child in this great country of ours "doped" for one week.

One whole week understand. Every man, woman and child!

No schools, no shops, no trains moving, no automobiles running—all the restaurants closed—all the theaters dark—no churches—no moving pictures—no traffic—in any one of the streets, from Maine to California.

Boston dead—New York asleep—Chicago in a stupor—San Francisco in a dazed trance. Interesting idea, isn't it?

And it isn't an idea alone. It's a plain, practical fact and every-one who has studied the "dope" practice in this country knows it.

The New York Department of Correction has just finished an exhaustive study of narcotic conditions throughout the country and the findings of the committee of investigation announce that beyond a doubt, 60 per cent of the criminals in jails, and penitentiaries and out of them, are narcotic addicts.

200,000 Known 'Dopes'

That same committee announces officially that there are 200,000 known and officially recorded addicts in New York City alone and that leaves out the thousands and thousands who are not recorded at all.

In the upper part of Michigan, they have found just recently 18 practicing physicians, in good and regular practice mind you, who are narcotic slaves themselves.

You don't need much imagination to get an idea what that means to the people who go to these doctors for help.

United States district attorney in Southern California makes the statement that 60 per cent of the time of the two federal grand juries in Los Angeles and Fresno is taken up with cases of violation of the Harrison narcotic act.

He says further that the forces of the government and the federal appropriations are nowhere near powerful enough to cope even half way with the situation.

The federal grand jury at El Paso, Tex., reports that boys between the ages of 12 and 15 are being taught the use of narcotics.

When these boys get into the grip of "dope" they sell their clothes to get the money to buy their daily poison, and when that money is all gone, they start to pilfer, at first at home and then at school.

Then they become pickpockets and petty larceny thieves and then they start in to robbery and, what they call down there, "gunplay" all to get drugs enough to keep going.

Youth in Toils

Every police officer in the United States can tell you hair-raising stories of what "dope" is doing to the young boys and girls in his district.

Every judge in every police court, and in every Federal court, too, for that matter, knows the same story and every welfare worker in this country can give you a separate and distinct version of the same horrifying tale.

Ten or 15 years ago the average age of the professional criminal was something between 20 and 25.

Today the average criminal isn't a day over 22 and, nine times out of 10, he is no more than 20.

It is no novelty at all to find boys of 15 and 16 belonging to holdup gangs, and the first thing the arresting officer who has to deal with these gangs says, is: "Where did you get the 'dope?'"

For almost without exception the gangster is a "dope" fiend.

Just how much did Hickman, the California kidnaper and murderer know about "dope?"

Nobody knows—yet.

But the whole cruel, outrageous, unnatural business reeks to heaven of dope.

It has all the earmarks of a typical narcotic crime—the callous heartlessness, the eager clutch for money, the brazen impudence, the braggadocio, the collapse at capture, the sudden recovery, the quickly recaptured egotism—after the confession.

You couldn't describe a "dope" crime or a "dope" criminal step-by-step and attribute-by-attribute as the Hickman affair records it.

How did he happen to confess when he had been locked up for a while? Did they take away his narcotic, and then when he had confessed given it to him again?

Nobody knows—as yet.

Hickman himself may tell the whole story before he dies, and if he does, hundreds of "dope" experts who have been watching this case with particular interest, will say, "I told you so."

"Dope" is the greatest maker of crime in the world today—the greatest enemy of mankind the world has ever known—the most insidious, the cruelest, the most powerful evil the human race has had to fight. How are we of America today, going to fight it?

By denying the truth? By laughing at the facts? By deliberately shutting our eyes to the inexorable, ghastly, terrifying growth of this dreadful evil?

Are we going to let the United States of America get into the clutches of the thing that almost choked the life out of the great Chinese nation?

The Japanese sell opium by the millions of ounces every year, but they do not allow one grain of it to be sold in Japan, except under the most rigid regulations, and then only to highly-accredited physicians. And the Japanese government watches those physicians in the bargain.

They Only Sell It

Japan sells, not to the Japanese, but to China—and, happy thought, to the United States.

America is full of thrifty, hard-working, successful Japanese, and among these American-Japanese are also some that traffic in opium and in morphine and in heroin and in cocaine and in codeine, but it has never yet been recorded in all the thousands of records of these thousands of cases that one single Japanese was himself an addict.

The Japanese sell "dope"—they do not use it.

England allows the manufacture and the sale of "dope" in her far-eastern possessions. The English government, in fact, helps and encourages the raising of the poppy plant from which opium and morphine and heroin are made.

In India there are two half-yearly auctions of narcotics—public auctions, with all the world there to bid

Try to sell "dope" in England, to Englishmen, however, and you will get into serious trouble.

England makes an enormous revenue growing the poppy in the Straits Settlement and in India. Many Englishmen are bitterly ashamed of the fact, but it is a fact, nevertheless. Try to sell "dope" in England, to an Englishman, however, and you will get into serious trouble, and it will take a great deal more than influence and money to get you out of that trouble.

We Americans seem to be more lenient—I wonder why?

Oh, yes, we have laws. Many of them are good laws too. Somehow they are not always in force everywhere and we might as well realize, to begin with, that the whole "dope" traffic here in the United States is carried on beside and behind and over the shoulder of the law.

Addicts Are Slaves

Ninety per cent of the "dope" used in this country is the smuggled "dope," and that isn't counting the eight grains apiece either—remember that.

How are we going to stop that smuggling?

How are we going to check the fearful rapidity of the growth of this incredible curse?

A narcotic addict is, first of all, and over and beyond and under and beside all, a slave.

He has no religion, no home, no family, no country.

He bows to one master and to that master he prostrates his body, and his heart and his soul, and everything that is or ever could be his.

When we made the draft at the beginning of our entrance into the World War, we discovered that we had a quarter of an available army rotten with "dope." And since then the traffic has grown like an evil mushroom.

Over in Paris, there are today, so the authorities say, 200,000 addicts and for this the French writers openly blame the American invasion.

Absinthe, cognac—the French always have had these. Morphia and cocaine they have had too in certain comparatively small quantities, but codeine, heroin, marijuana—these things they say the Americans have introduced. The French newspapers are printing articles concerning the spread of the narcotic addict among the French working classes.

And always they speak somewhere in their articles of the American influence in the situation—so much to be deplored.

How long are we going to let this noxious thing that threatens our very civilization go on?

What is it all about anyhow?

Can't we take counsel together—we plain, simple, every-day Americans, who love our country and believe in it and are proud of it—can't we try humbly and patiently and earnestly to find some path out of this dim, mysterious, deadly swamp into which we seem to be stumbling with such dazed and half-benumbed faculties?

Game Cock Fight in Inn Raided; Six Arrested

2 ESCAPE IN LEAP OUT WINDOW

The ballroom of the Marble Gate Inn, Leechburg road, near Unity, was raided early today by eight humane society agents, accompanied by Squire John Popp, Jr., of Castle Shannon.

Five men and Mrs. Annie Murphy, alleged proprietress, were arrested, and several fighting cocks seized. One of the game cocks, dead, was still warm when the officers broke up the fight and another was so badly "gaffed" that it had to be killed.

Two spectators at the fight left by way of a rear window, one carrying a game cock and the other a bottle of moonshine liquor. When pursuit became hot the fugitives dropped their burdens.

Mrs. Murphy put up a $60 cash forfeit for her appearance in court, and five men each put up $25 forfeits. They were Harry May, Verona; T. J. Wilson, Swissvale; E. J. Wallace, McKeesport, and Ellsworth and Thomas McDade, Verona.

TREVESKYN AND MORGAN VISITED

Four big trucks, loaded with groceries, were taken to the little mining towns of Treveskyn and Morgan yesterday by members of the Beacon Club, a Squirrel Hill organization. Many of the families were without food of any description. Their eagerness to obtain supplies is shown by this long, crowded line at Treveskyn.

BENJAMIN FINNEY CONSTANCE TALMADGE

When Benjamin Finney, wealthy young Virginia cotton broker, arrived in Manila, P. I., and was heralded as the husband of Constance Talmadge, movie star, rumors that he and Miss Talmadge had been secretly wed, were revived. Miss Talmadge had been with him just before he sailed as a member of the Chicago Field Museum Expedition into French Indo-China and Southeastern Asia, and gave newspapermen what is now construed as an ambiguous answer when they denied that they were soon to be married. However, if they are married, Connie Talmadge will be without a husband for a year, as he will be gone that long with the expedition.

SNOW BRINGS WELCOME WINTER SPORT TO CITY

WHERE WORK IS PLAY

At any other time cleaning the front walk would be the hardest kind of labor, but when it is snowing and there is snow-balling going on, Billy Winthrop, Thomas Swearengen and Henry Mancini, all of Elliott, found walk-cleaning a pleasure, while Catherine Daly, James O'Brien and Geraldine Stevenson, out in the West End, find [illegible] much to their liking.

It's no use trying to dope out any reason for this picture other than the girls are cute. Natalie Smillie and Marion Leigh, Carnegie Tech co-eds, both of Bellevue, enjoy a frolic in the snow between classes. Certainly they had fun!

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

Many a person has succeeded in healing stubborn old sores and ulcers with applications of Peterson's Ointment after expensive treatments had utterly failed.

Here is a letter well worth reading and if you have a friend afflicted the same, why not send him this?

"About a year ago, I contracted 15 varicose ulcers on my arm which rapidly grew worse. They extended up my whole arm, one-half inch deep. I used several salves, but instead of making my arm better they made it worse. Blood poisoning nearly set in. Doctors told me I would have to have my arm amputated. Finally I read about your Peterson's Ointment in the newspapers and began to use it. After several boxes I began to see an improvement, and within a short time the ulcers were entirely closed up and healed. I am glad to say a good word for Peterson's Ointment and you can refer to me any time."—Mrs. Patrick O'Neill, Buffalo, N. Y.

Nearly every druggist recommends Peterson's Ointment and you can get a good-sized box for only 35 cents.

States. America is master of the world."

AMERICA probably COULD be master of the world. But to desire that mastery would be foolish. To be masters of ourselves, mind our business, develop this country and increase the well-being of the average man, is a big enough task.

AT PRESENT, this nation is in a dangerous condition, rich, tempting, like a fat worm lying in the path of stray birds. Every day this nation needs the warning that Solon gave Croesus, displaying proudly his piles of gold, "Croesus, if any one comes, having better iron than you have, he will be master of all that gold."

IF ANY nation comes, having flying machines, which we have not, it will be master of all our gold—for a while at least.

Nevertheless, Mr. Ex-Kaiser, we thank you for the compliment, as the colored gentleman said, when asked to change a fifty dollar bill.

W. R. HEARST will build on his 250,000-acre ranch here an astronomical observatory, on a mountain top near the Pacific.

It is strange how few of the world's rich men think it worth while to look out, away from this earthly patch of real estate.

THE termites, incorrectly called "white ants," spend their lives underground, driven below by fighting ants, and those termites are content to live down there, never looking out. A majority of men are like them.

YET, the things worth seeing are all above and outside of the ocean of air that covers us, as water covers the fishes.

Dr. W. S. Adams, who directs the great observatory on Mount Wilson, says modern astronomy counts "billions of stars" in the cosmic group or galaxy, to which our sun belongs. Many of those stars are a million times as big as our sun, which is a million times as big as our earth.

PTOLEMY could count only 1,022 stars—no telescope, spectroscope or stellar photography in old Greece.

Outside of our "Universe," containing, probably, not more than 30 billions of solar systems, astronomers find one million "Spiral Nebulae," each a stellar universe like our little family group of 30 billion suns. That seems worth studying.

DR. ADAMS thinks those vast spaces are inhabited by thinking beings and that "behind this physical creation, there lies, perhaps, some power."

That seems reasonable.

THE beetle by the railroad track is sure the express train is not inhabited—too noisy and chaotic. As for the theory that one thinking engineer planned the road, while a guiding intelligence runs the train, no self-reliant, agnostic beetle would believe that.

AGENTS OF SENATE

gating body will not visit Washington, Pa., which was contemplated at first.

The sub-committee, consisting of three Republicans and two Democrats, is scheduled to arrive in Pittsburgh Thursday morning and will establish headquarters at the William Penn Hotel. From there the committee will make a number of inspection tours by automobile and otherwise of the soft coal area, according to Senator Gooding.

Although no sworn testimony will be taken on the trip the senatorial investigators will be prepared to interview witnesses and make a general examination of conditions. Upon returning to Washington a formal report will be presented to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which was authorized to conduct the inquiry under the resolution offered by Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, of California.

The sub-committee's report is expected to be largely a guide to the general investigation which will follow here.

On the present trip the body will confine itself to the soft coal fields of Western Pennsylvania. At a later date a similar survey of the bituminous districts of Ohio and West Virginia may be made. Senator Gooding was unable to say today just how long he and his colleagues will remain in Pittsburgh, but expects that it will be for the rest of the week at least.

The sub-committee's program while in Pittsburgh will be discussed at the meeting called for today. Most of the final details will be worked out after reaching the scene, but consideration will be given to proposals for visiting various centers of the strike district.

An effort will be made, it was stated, to obtain for the full committee a first-hand picture of conditions as related by Senator Johnson and others in their demands for the inquiry. The homes of striking miners will be visited, living conditions will be investigated, while labor officials and operators will be interviewed.

In addition the committee members will seek information from business leaders at Pittsburgh on economic phases of the industrial dispute.

To sum it up the purpose will be to gain a close view of the whole strike situation.

Besides Senator Gooding other members of the sub-committee are Senators Metcalf of Rhode Island and Pine of Oklahoma, Republicans, and Senators Wheeler of Montana and Wagner of New York, Democrats.

OHIO INSURGENTS RAP MINE HEAD

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 20.—Thwarting efforts of the Federal authorities, the city police of Bellaire, and John Cinque, president of Sub-District No. 5 of District No. 6 of the United Mine Workers, to prevent their meeting, 350 striking coal miners, representing 60 local unions, assembled here yesterday afternoon, expressed their opposition to the policy of John L. Lewis, international president of the organization, and formulated a program for carrying on the strike more vigorously. The meeting was held under the auspices of the "Save the Union Committee," in which John Brophy of 1607 Buena Vista street, Pittsburgh, formerly president of District No. 2, and an unsuccessful candidate for the international presidency, in opposition to Lewis, at the last election of the United Mine Workers, is a prominent figure.

Anthony Minerich, 23, president of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Miners' Relief Committee, with headquarters in the Lyceum Building, Pittsburgh, was to have been the principal speaker. But he was arrested at Lansing, O., Saturday afternoon by deputy United States marshals and taken to Columbus, presumably, according to his associates, to answer to a charge of contempt of court for having urged the strikers to violate a Federal injunction against mass picketing.

In Minerich's place the insurgent miners engaged as speaker Vincent Kemenevich, 28, secretary of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Miners' Relief Committee, one of a group of militant young men who have come forward into leadership lately.

DENIED HALL USE

The United Mine Workers have a $250,000 "Miners' Temple" in Bellaire, but Cinque and his executive board refused to allow the insurgents to have the use of it. They accordingly hired Bohemian Hall. This auditorium was thronged with miners yesterday afternoon when Chief of Police George L. Busch, with Sergt. Francis Moran and Patrolmen James Brown and Earl Johnson strode up to the platform and ordered the audience to disperse.

"There will be no meeting," he said.

"What is your authority for interfering? Why are we not permitted to meet? What evidence do you have that we are doing anything unlawful?" inquired members of the audience.

"I am not going to argue with you," said the chief, doggedly. "I am just telling you that I won't allow this meeting to be held. So get out of the hall."

The chief stated to this reporter that he understood a couple of the speakers who were to address the meeting belonged to the Industrial Workers of the World—"and I won't stand for that," he said.

WITHDRAW QUIETLY

The crowd was reluctant to withdraw, but Robert Matusek, president of Local Union No. 1840, United Mine Workers, of Shadyside, O., took the platform, and urged the miners to leave quietly.

"We'll go to the Miners' Temple, then," shouted various persons in the throng. "It is our own temple and Cinque cannot keep us out."

And there they went. And either Cinque and the police did not know about it, or did not choose to interfere again.

Matusek was made permanent chairman of the meeting. He is a man of much experience in the labor movement, having been actively associated with W. Z. Foster in the direction of the steel strike of 1919.

At one time he and Foster went to Steubenville to address a meeting and were warned that a delegation from the American Legion were awaiting at the station with the intention of not permitting them to get off the train. They circumvented the Legionnaires, however, and held their meeting.

At the meeting yesterday Matusek read a letter from Brophy, in which the latter charged that John L. Lewis had been elected to the presidency of the United Mine Workers by fraud, and that his policies did not accurately reflect the sentiments of the rank and file. Numerous examples of alleged crookedness in the election were cited. The Bellaire insurgents resolved to invite Brophy to address them next Saturday.

Kemenevich said at the outset that he expected to be arrested, but that he would deem it no disgrace to go to jail "for standing up for the miners' rights like a man."

He argued that the strike, as conducted by Lewis, had been a failure, and that there was need of more of "the old-time fighting spirit" if it was to succeed. He charged that during Lewis' 10 years of leadership the union not only has failed to organize non-union fields, but has lost 200,000 of the 600,000 members that it had in 1922.

The only way, said Kemenevich, in which the miners can make the strike effective is by stopping production of coal; and that is not being done, he said, because Lewis' policy stands in the way.

Kemenevich asserted that five days of mass picketing at No. 4 mine of the Vesta Coal Company recently had reduced the output from 1,300 to 500 wagon loads a day and caused 44 of the strike-breakers to lay down their tools and join the union.

Notwithstanding this, Kemenevich continued, Philip Murray, international vice president of the union, told Joseph Angelo, the organizer at the Vesta mine, and Angelo passed the word along, that unless the strikers there stopped mass picketing the union would withdraw the financial relief it was sending them. Moreover, Kemenevich asserted, Murray opposed the use of women as pickets, notwithstanding that they were more effective than men.

Kemenevich said he did not counsel violence, but he thought the strikers would do well to use their wives and their children to persuade the strike-breakers to quit their jobs.

"For there is nothing more effective," he said, "than for a little child on the picket line to say to a strike-breaker, 'Please don't "scab" against my daddy.'"

"The union is in danger," said Kemenevich, "and we must fight to save it. We must fight with marches, mass picketing and violation of injunctions. We must not forget that this is a war between the operators and the miners."

STANLEY OPENS NEXT WEEK

Announcement is made by the Stanley Company of America that the new Stanley Theater, Seventh street and Liberty avenue, will open next Monday, February 27. There will be one inaugural performance, which begins at 8:30 p. m. This performance will be attended by the state, city and county officials as well as other prominent persons. Gov. Fisher is among those invited, as are Mayor Kline and Pittsburgh financial leaders are expected to attend.

All seats are reserved for this one show only. After the opening the regular policy of continuous shows comprised of photoplays and high class stage attractions will be seen.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" will be the first cinema to grace the new screen and the stage show will be headed by Anatole Friedland and his big revue. As an added feature there will be an elaborate atmospheric spectacle, "The Spirit of Pittsburgh," featuring the Stanley male chorus of 30.

The orchestra will be under the leadership of Phil Spitalny.

The house management is under the direction of James Balmer, for many years in the same capacity in the Grand.

The Stanley Theater is one of two units that comprise a $10,000,000 construction program at the corner of Seventh street and Liberty avenue.

In Musical Comedy

JULIA SANDERSON is the feminine star of "Oh, Kay," opening in the Alvin this evening for a week's stay.

Director

DON ALBERT, director of the Penn Orchestra, also is director of the Penn stage orchestra, which made its debut last week as part of the stage program in that theater.

Herbert Brenon "Discovery" Plays Heroine in New Chaney Picture, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh"

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.

JUST when all the girls are having their faces lifted comes the shock that perfection is the bunk.

Loretta Young got her part opposite Lon Chaney in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" because her front teeth were funny. Loretta's teeth look like baby-teeth. They aren't, they just look that way. Loretta probably cut her second teeth out in Hollywood some time ago. But the teeth still look like baby-teeth anyway, so Herbert Brenon chose her for Lon Chaney's leading lady. The director says so himself.

Of course, Loretta had other things besides the teeth. She had charm which made her test stand out among 43. And she was only 16. Herbert Brenon discovered Betty Bronson. He expects as great things from Loretta. And if Loretta isn't a little ingrate, she'll step right out and make a hit in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh."

Herbert Brenon talked about Loretta to me. He talked about Lon, too. "What makes the girls love Chaney, so?" I asked him, remembering that Lon gets more mash mail than any actor in Hollywood.

"Why's Lon's charming!" answered Mr. Brenon, clearly amazed that the pleasant fact hadn't been taken for granted. Lon's charm, it appears, manifests itself in being gentle with everybody, gracious, unaffected, easy to direct and fond of sitting around talking to the stage carpenters.

Mr. Brenon confessed that when he was chosen to direct Lon's "Laugh, Clown, Laugh!" he had a few misgivings. Such a boxoffice power was bound to be temperamental. But his misgivings were wasted. Lon turned out to be a great guy.

SCORES LINDSEY'S MARITAL VIEWS

Disagreeing with Judge Ben B. Lindsey on ways and means of solving the marriage and divorce problem, but advocating the teaching of sex hygiene in public schools and placing his stamp of approval on birth control, under certain conditions, the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, last night preached on "The Companionate Marriage."

Admitting that "we need something, but its not the companionate marriage," Dr. Urmy suggested that instead of conducting a scientific survey into the wreckage of a marriage in an effort to rehabilitate it as would be done if Judge Lindsey's theory was put into practice, that sociological science have a say as to who shall and who shall not be permitted to marry.

Dr. Urmy declared that Judge Lindsey, coming from an atmosphere of marital infidelity, sexual immorality and crime that pervades the type of court in which he spent so many years, is not the proper person to propose legislation for general application.

He contended that birth control and a "loose" sort of union, as he termed the companionate marriage, could not be a "panacea" for alleged general sex looseness among young people.

Seat 126 Women In Legislatures, Poll Shows

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The names of 126 women are being carried on the rosters of state legislatures in 1928, a survey just completed by the National League of Women Voters discloses.

In the nine states whose legislatures are meeting this year, there are 19 women legislators. Republicans more than double the number of Democrats. The political representation of women on the present rosters is: Republicans, 86; Democrats, 34; no party designation, 4; non-partisans, 1; independent, 1.

The 1928 total is a gain of two over the 1927 record.

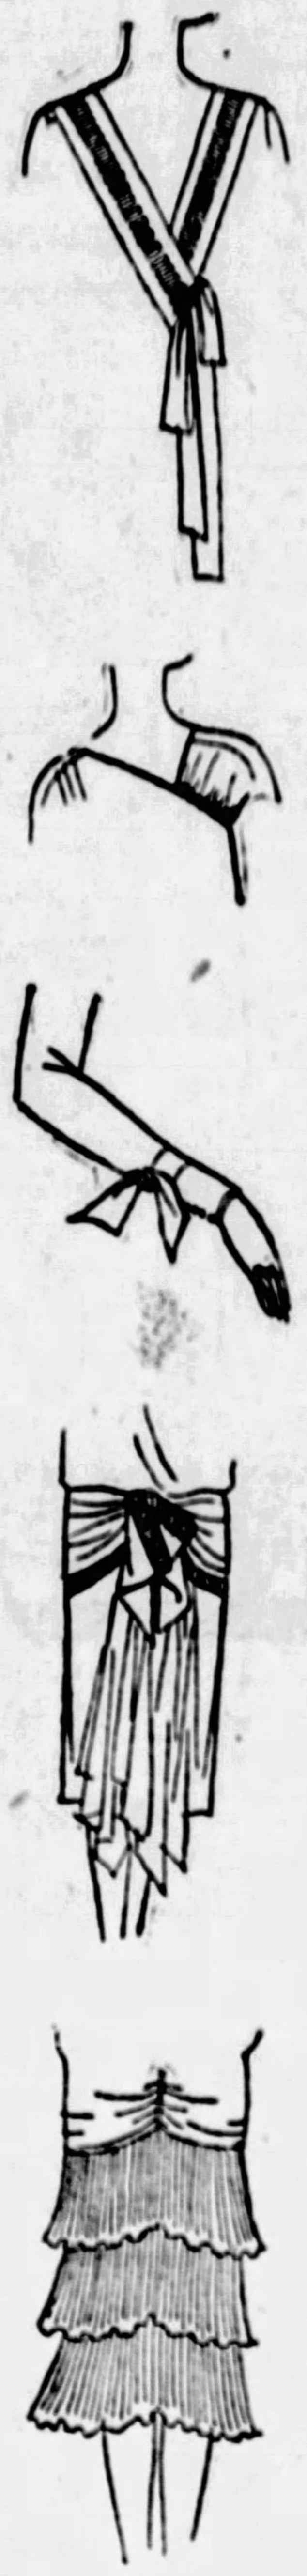
The Meaning of Certain Details

In New Dresses for Spring



Each detail has been created to produce some definite, charming effect; and each has been accepted by the department of finer dresses at Horne's for the same excellent reason.

The Deep-V Neckline is to produce an illusion of length from neck to waistline, and give piquancy to the features.

In this instance it is softened by tucking and entredeux, to a becomingness not easily attained by a collarless finish. In a frock of Independence blue chiffon, the collar in nude shade. $85.00.

The Molyneux Neckline, with its asymmetric slant, is designed to coincide with the modernistic trend of the moment, and to give diversion to the mode.

The variation pictured, draped to relieve any possibility of harshness, is especially effective in a dress of gray flat crepe, set off with metal buttons. $75.00.

The Wrist Tie will give unwonted grace to gestures at the bridge table, or to the hand presiding at tea.

Noted in models by those designers who consider even small details important, and who, therefore, are regular contributors to our stocks.

The Moulded Feeling at the Hipline produces an effect of greater length of limb, a line which the artist eye appreciates as beautiful and elegant.

The sketch of this feature, as shown, has been made from a dress of black lace, with girdle and slip of black chiffon. $39.50.

Tiers, which will appear from morning till night on dresses for spring, give a rythmical skirt movement which symbolizes the spirit of youth.

Three scalloped tiers lend charm to a two-piece dress of flat crepe, in cocoa, gray or navy, with neckline finished by a pendant of colored crystals. $75.00.

A February Special Value

Queen Anne Dining Room Set of Dignity and Beauty

Furniture following designs of the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries in England, is particularly well adapted to the unpretentious modern home. The simplicity of design inspired by ideals of domestic comfort and ease, makes it easy to live with and gives a room charm and dignity.

The dining room shown is of typical Queen Anne design. It shows the cabriole-leg, and fiddle-back type of chair of that period. Characteristically it is of walnut with gumwood. Ten pieces include a china closet, buffet, server, table, one arm- and five side-chairs, $495.00.

There are equally good values in other dining room sets, and in bedroom and living room furniture.

Bedroom Sets.....$195.00 to $1175.00
Dining Room Sets.....$245.00 to $1150.00
Living Room Sets.....$210.00 to $ 950.00

If it is more convenient to pay for furniture purchases out of income, the Credit Department will arrange it for you.

CRETONNES

Harmony in color, texture and design is achieved by these delightful new cretonnes. There are cool blue and green tones for the sunny room, and warm, vivid orange and gold pieces to give warmth to cold northern rooms. Dainty chintz patterns, designs for rooms in Spanish, Colonial, or English styles, and a number of distinctly modernistic design.

Prices, 65c to $1.50 yard.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

Especially when any druggist anywhere guarantees Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant elixir, to end indigestion, acute or chronic, or money back.

"Always Tired at Night"—Try this

A healthy person never feels constantly tired. Being "too tired" continually tells of something wrong. When John R. Gordon, Danville, Ill., found himself "always tired at night and burdened with backache," he took Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, and writes: "After a few doses, I felt better, could work easier, became stronger, and slept soundly." Men and women everywhere use and recommend them. Satisfaction guaranteed. Ask for Foley Pills diuretic. Sold everywhere.

EMBASSY CLUB RECEIVERSHIP IS PUT OFF

Judge Richard W. Martin today postponed action on the appointment of a permanent receiver for the Embassy Beach Club until March 2, and in the meantime the temporary receiver may make an effort to ascertain what became of $140,000 paid in by 900 members.

The motion to postpone action on making the Potter Title and Trust Company permanent receiver was made by Attorneys George Wick and Ira D. Houck, representing a majority of the members, and was not objected to by Attorney Morris D. Canter, representing more than 100 members who are endeavoring to get their $300 membership fees back.

Attorney Houck said that the real status of the club's affairs was not known as the safe had not been opened and no audit made, but Judge Martin remarked that the appointment of the temporary receiver gave the right to go ahead and make an investigation. In the meantime, Attorneys Houck and Wick said that efforts were being made to save the property, situated in Highland avenue opposite the Emory Mthodist Episcopal Church. It has changed hands a number of times during the last few years. First the Wainwright estate sold the property to the Sacred Heart Church for $135,000. The church then sold the site to the Stephen C. Foster Corporation, which intended erecting a hotel on the property, but later the corporation turned the property over to the Embassy Beach Club organization for $150,000.

HALT RITES FOR DEATH PROBE

After halting funeral arrangements for Anna Matzo, 11, of Wall borough, who, police say, was shot accidentally in her home Saturday night, attaches of the coroner's office early today performed the autopsy upon the body and then granted permission for the funeral to be held today. The child died in the Braddock General Hospital yesterday. The autopsy showed death had been caused by a bullet wound.

County detectives say that the girl was shot while her brother, Michael, 14, was cleaning a rusty revolver. Following the shooting, detectives questioned the youth who told them the shooting was accidental. Yesterday hospital attendants are said to have told Coroner W. J. McGregor that the girl was shot during an argument. The investigation is being continued.

JAIL SLAVE RING SUSPECT

City detectives today questioned Jerry Giamidas, 29, of Cleveland, arrested here last night with a girl and another man, as to his connection with a white slave ring operating out of the Ohio city.

Giamidas, a Greek, was arrested with Hazel Negley, 21, of 1637 Forbes street, and Peter Camenos, 28, in a room at 608 Fifth avenue. He became acquainted with them in the Union restaurant, 608 Fifth avenue, where the girl is a waitress and Camenos is chef.

In Morals Court today Giamidas was sentenced to serve 30 days in the workhouse after being questioned by detectives; the girl was held over and Camenos was fined $50.

PITTSBURGHERS MAY RECEIVE FORTUNE

Mrs. Julia P. Smith, who died in December in the Florida State Hospital for the Insane at Tallahasse, and whose heirs the Missing Persons Bureau has been asked to find, was a Frenchwoman and an orphan, it was learned today, and always gave her friends to understand she had no relatives.

Her husband, David Smith, who died in 1920, at one time was a well known lawyer in Pittsburgh. His firm's name was Smith, Kennedy and McVicar, and the Kennedy member was President Judge Richard A. Kennedy of the County Court. David Smith lived for many years on a farm at Tarentum, and a cousin, W. A. Burchfield, still lives on an adjoining farm.

Relatives of David Smith are wondering if, should no blood relatives of Mrs. Smith be found, they will fall heir to her Florida property, which is said to be valued at several thousand dollars.

SEWICKLEY JAIL HITCH IN COURT

The Sewickley borough jail muddle, subject of an investigation by the Borough Council, reached Comman Pleas Court today where the case of Ross F. Shaffer, constable of Glenfield, was argued before Judges Macfarlane, Ford and Carnahan.

Shafer asked for a writ of mandamus against the borough because he had been denied the right to place his prisoners in the Sewickley jail. The borough contended it did not have to support a jail for prisoners of other communities in the same neighborhood, but had always kept its jail open to state officers with prisoners arrested on serious charges.

SLATE WINTERS AS ALTERNATE

Reports that Councilman Daniel Winters would run for delegate in the Thirty-fifth District against the organization slate were set at rest today when it was learned that Winters will be a candidate for alternate with organization support. He informed friends of his intentions before leaving for Florida where he will spend several weeks.

The organization slate in the district will be Mayor Charles H. Kline and George H. Flinn for delegates, and Winters and Mrs. Mary Todd for alternates.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Anita Shields, as Doll, Proves Irresistible at Quaker City Party, Given for Twin Buds

AS HAS been said here before quite frequently, they are still having quite a few big parties for debutantes in the East, and among them was a costume dance which the Samuel McDowells, of Devon, gave last Thursday night in the Playhouse for two Quaker City buds who are twin sisters, Elizabeth and Florence Buzby. And one of the most popular guests at the party was pretty Anita Shields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Shields, of Philadelphia, and sister of Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr. Anita came out, you remember, in New York on November 26 at a dance given by the Darlingtons and their brother and sister-in-law, the Robert Livingston Clarksons.

Anita, the reports say, was quite irresistible as a doll, wearing a short frock of blue organdie with a huge blue sash, and a bow of blue ribbon in her hair.

BEAVERS BUILD HOME AS HUNTERS MARK TIME

TIONESTA, Pa., Feb. 20.—Protected by the closed trapping season, a pair of young beavers are busily engaged in cutting down trees, building a dam and establishing a home on John's run.

KLAN TO UNMASK ON WEDNESDAY

Members of the Ku Klux Klan throughout the country will forswear the mask and visor Wednesday night and thereafter come out in the full glare of public scrutiny.

By a proclamation of the Emperor and Imperial Wizard of the order, Dr. H. W. Evans, it will be unlawful for any member of the Ku Klux Klan to appear masked after Wednesday night, and it will be unlawful for any member of the Klan to even fraternize with a masked Klansman.

Also on Wednesday night, in ceremonies over the country, members of the Klan will be initiated into the third degree of the order and become Knights of the Great Forest.

Friends of the Klan in Pittsburgh point to the unmasking procedure as indicative of a new order of things within the klan.

"The sentiment against the masks has been steadily growing for the past two or three years," said a local Klansman, "and, although we knew the proclamation to unmask would come eventually, we did not know just when or how it would be presented. Many of our members felt they were under suspicion as members of a masked order."

An Important Biography
HENRY CLAY FRICK: THE MAN
By George Harvey
THIS biography of one of the greatest of American Captains of Industry, whose remarkable career was interwoven with the development of the gigantic steel industry in this country, is impressively presented in the vivid writing of Colonel Harvey.
The remarkable facts of Mr. Frick's life are in themselves assurance that this is no conventional biography. His typically American boyhood, his early business successes, relations with Andrew Carnegie, the famous Homestead Strike and the later history of the steel industry are among the fascinating chapters of the book.
It is an outstanding contribution to the history of the time.

Thicker
Richer, Redder
Did you ever notice, Heinz Tomato Ketchup is a richer, more velvety red. That deeper crimson tells you that this ketchup has a deeper, richer flavor—that it is the true essence of vine-ripened tomatoes, with every particle of excess water cooked out of it.
Heinz supervises the raising of these perfect tomatoes from cultivated seed, and cooks them in nearby kitchens with pure sugar and rare spices the very day they come in, juicy-ripe and warm from the hot summer sunshine.

FINED TWICE IN MONTH ON DIVE CHARGE

Edna Freidel, 26, of East North avenue, North Side, who recently was arraigned in Morals Court on two successive days, made her third appearance before Magistrate A. D. Brandon in that court yesterday, this time on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was fined $100. Jack Rooney, who was with her on one of the previous occasions, accompanied her again yesterday. He was sentenced to the workhouse for 30 days. Another woman was held for examination and a man was discharged.

Four weeks ago she was brought into court on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and fined $100. At that time she wanted to get her money back and she and Rooney, with a revolver and a quart of liquor, started a search for a Twenty-third Ward politician, who they wanted to intercede for them. In the search they became embroiled in an argument with a policeman, and as a result were in court the next day. The second appearance brought fines of $25 each.

SCHOOL BURNS AT BRADFORD

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 20.—Fire believed to have originated from an overheated furnace, destroyed the Fourth Ward Public School building, an eight-room brick, here early today with a $35,000 loss.

A heavy snowfall during the fire prevented spread of flames to nearby dwellings. Three hundred and fifty pupils who attended the school will be given a temporary vacation until other quarters can be provided.

"SUB" FOE

SIR. W. C. BRIDGEMAN

Britain's First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir W. C. Bridgeman, commenting in a speech on the American proposal to do away with submarines, said: "We should be very glad if submarines could be abolished altogether, but other weaker countries regard the submarine as their only means of defense, and we have to take into consideration that fact." Mr. Bridgeman recalled that abolition of submarines was first urged by great Britain at the Washington conference but was not accepted. At Geneva he had pointed out that Britain stood where she did at Washington.

FIRE RAZES OHIO MASONIC HOME

WARREN, O., Feb. 20.—Because the town lacked fire-fighting equipment, citizens stood by helpless while the new Masonic building at Hartford was destroyed by flames with a loss of $40,000.

Only records of the lodge, kept in a fireproof safe, were saved. A small part of the loss was suffered by the James Wilson store on the first floor of the two-story brick structure, which was built two years ago.

The lodge, one of the oldest in Ohio, recently celebrated its one hundredth anniversary.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THESE MODERN LOVERS

A MAN is not necessarily in love when he tumbles for a girl. But when he falls so hard that he can't stop going—that's the test.

Nothing seems to bore a man so much as a woman who tries hard to please him, and nothing seems to intrigue him so such as a woman who succeeds in tormenting him.

* * *

A "feed" is the cold chicken and pie a man sneaks out of the ice-box after he has returned from a "banquet."

HELEN ROWLAND

Life would be almost perfect if men would only take the trouble to make their alibis after marriage as plausible and flattering as they do their telephone lies before marriage.

Philander says, "If a suspicious woman can't find any other woman in a man's life, she can work up a fine case of jealousy against the woman she thinks he THINKS about."

* * *

The first sure sign of real love in a man is when he stops flattering and begins to moralize.

From the way the average man clamps his hair down on his head with pomade these days, you'd fancy he was thinking of Samson and defying any woman to run her fingers through it.

You can get let off for murder on the plea of insanity, but not from marriage, no matter HOW crazy you were when you did it.

* * *

To a man, the most uninteresting thing on earth is a girl's address in his last year's telephone list.

Gargle twice a day

These are days when sore throat, colds, "flu" and pneumonia are a constant threat. At the first sign of throat irritation gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength.

It may be—and very probably will be—the means of warding off a nasty cold, or worse.

The instant Listerine enters your mouth, it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that develop and multiply there.

For this reason, it has been the first aid of millions in checking cold weather complaints before they became serious.

In view of your constant exposure to disease germs, we urge you to use Listerine night and morning every day during cold weather. A simple precaution—but well worth taking. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

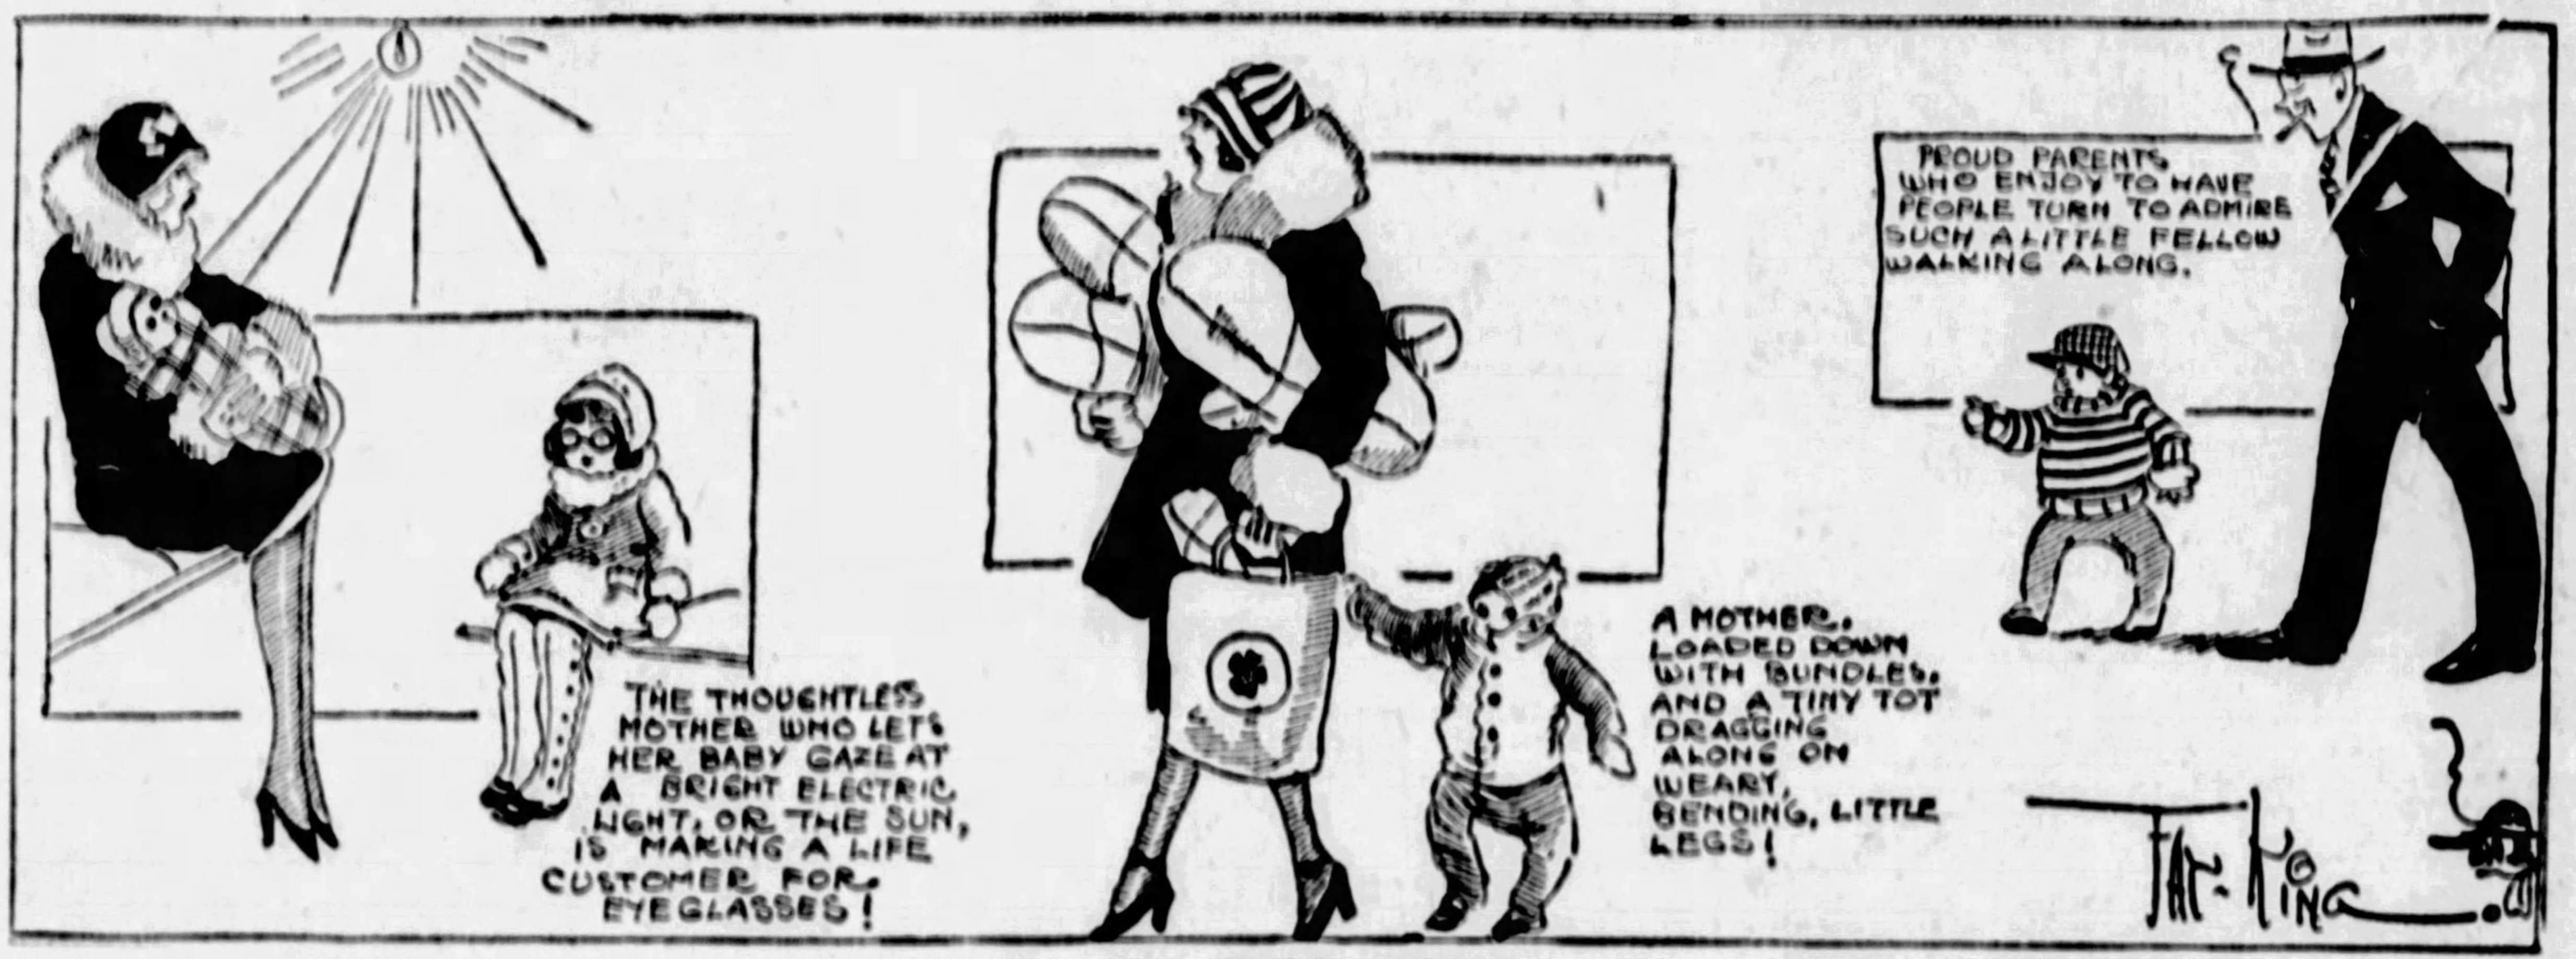
Fay King Warns Mothers About Bowed Legs



THE THOUGHTLESS MOTHER WHO LETS HER BABY GAZE AT A BRIGHT ELECTRIC LIGHT, OR THE SUN, IS MAKING A LIFE CUSTOMER FOR EYEGLASSES!
A MOTHER, LOADED DOWN WITH BUNDLES, AND A TINY TOT DRAGGING ALONG ON WEARY, BENDING, LITTLE LEGS!
PROUD PARENTS, WHO ENJOY TO HAVE PEOPLE TURN TO ADMIRE SUCH A LITTLE FELLOW WALKING ALONG.
FAY KING

By FAY KING

IT WAS very sad to read of the young girl who had to have both her legs amputated because gangrene set in after an operation to straighten them.

Many persons who have bowlegs imagine they are more disfiguring than they really are. But it seems to me that if parents would be careful not to let their babies walk too soon, bowlegs could be avoided in many cases.

Thoughtlessness or pride in young parents is the cause often of a lifetime of hardship for children.

Parents who, for the sake of showing strangers and friends that their child has walked sooner than others, strain and bend the little legs while they are tender and forming.

Bowlegs are the price that child pays.

Mothers who shop for hours and then have too many bundles to carry their tired little youngster, also contribute to the number of bowed legs one sees.

Thoughtless mothers who let a tiny baby glare at bright lights or the sun, weaken those little eyes, and it will probably mean that child will wear glasses all its life.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator From New York

Food, Headaches and Air Are Related

PERHAPS there is no ailment so common as headache. Never a day passes but some friend or acquaintance will say, "I have a terrible headache." There are very few persons in the world who do not have an occasional headache.

DR. COPELAND

There are many causes for headache. Perhaps the chief ones are indiscretion in diet and late hours. Of course, there are other causes—eye-strain, over fatigue and failure of elimination.

The lesson everybody should learn is how to eat and what to eat. To eat regularly, to eat simple food, and not to eat between meals, are pieces of advice which it should be unnecessary to give to sane and sensible people. But, it is hardly worth while to give this advice because the temptation of appetite is too strong for the average person. The advice is always well received and invariably agreed to, but it is straightway forgotten or disregarded.

A little while ago I asked a charming lady what she thought was the cause of her headache. Her reply was that in order to get plumper she has been eating richer food. Upon hearing this answer I looked at her critically and made up my mind that she was not breathing deeply enough and the system was not getting sufficient oxygen to take care of this added food.

There is an intimate relationship between the intake of food and the necessity for oxygen. You can see why this is so. The fire in the furnace will not burn without air, that is, it won't burn without oxygen.

Why should you expect the fuel of the body, which is the food we take, to burn or oxidize, as we call it, unless there is an ample supply of oxygen? Deep breathing and regularity in the intake of air should accompany the eating of increased quantities of food.

My fine young friend must expect to have her system burdened and possibly considerably disturbed if she materially increased her intake of food without, at the same time, giving herself an extra supply of pure air.

Today I have dealt with but one sort of headache. On another occasion we will discuss other forms. I do want to say this in conclusion, however, that you should not disregard a headache which persists, or a headache which occurs every two or three days. There is some underlying cause for this headache and it should be discovered.

Answers to Health Queries

J. P. Q.—Would high blood pressure cause the chest to be continually red?

A.—No; probably due to a circulatory disturbance.

E. W. Q.—I have rheumatism in my feet and they swell and hurt to walk. What will ease the pain and clear up the trouble?

A.—First of all, locate the source of infection. Application of heat should give relief. Proper diet and elimination are factors in many cases. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

(Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Dr. Copeland Says:

"Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many cathartic compounds. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes they are far less irritating. Indeed, many have qualities that make them soothing and healing. Sugar-coated pills are pleasant to take, which may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic because they appeal to the taste."

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, flushes the bowels and washes away impurities. It is gentle, soothing, healing, non-habit-forming. Corrects constipation and restores normal bowel movements. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

By ELEANOR GALE

Puzzled

DEAR MISS GALE:

This is the last place I ever thought I would have to come for advice, but it seems I must. I am a girl 18 years old. I have never gone out with boys, and do not go to parties. Here is my trouble: My girl friend tells me a certain boy is always telling her he likes me very much. I know this boy, but have never talked to him, except to speak to him when I meet him. Now I like him very much, and would like to get acquainted with him. Do you think I should talk to him first, or will he, if he really likes me, take the initiative?

PUZZLED.

Let him take the initiative in the friendship, my dear, but you might encourage him a little by being friendly when you see him.

Just Sweet Sixteen

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have never written you before, but read your column. Won't you please give me some of your wonderful advice? I am a girl of 16 and love a boy six years my senior. We have been keeping steady company for two months. Do you think I am too young to keep steady company? My mother has no objections as she is quite fond of him. Now another thing is that he made me give up all my other boy friends, that is he said if I went with any of them he would never see me again. Do you think that is fair? I thank you with my whole heart.

JUST SWEET SIXTEEN.

This boy has no right to dictate your friendships, my dear. You are too young to restrict your friendships to one.

Correspondents are reminded that all letters sent to this department must be written on one side of the paper only, and that no personal replies are ever given.

Ann

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a constant reader of The Sun-Tele and also love to read your column. I would like a little advice in my problem. I am so unhappy. My husband abuses me sometimes and swears at me terribly. He is never at home and comes in very late at night. I have a 3-year-old girl and when she calls him he'll most always give her a swear answer. I am ill. Only home nine months after a two-year stay in Cresson and am getting along fairly well and work pretty hard, as he would not help me with any of it. Now, would you advise me to keep on living with a man that is always making your life miserable? I am only 22 and want to get a divorce and go to work for my baby and my living. Do you think I could get a divorce on these grounds? I also had him arrested twice before for non-support for the baby and myself. I want to tell you that I'm faithful to him, as I never leave my home only to shop and visit a friend of mine once in a while.

ANN.

I am sorry, Ann, but you will have to consult a lawyer about your troubles. I cannot advise you about them. You have just cause for feeling very much hurt at your husband's attitude, however.

Curly Head

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have started to read your advice and I think it is wonderful. I have an entirely different question than the ones you have been receiving. I am only 13 years old and I want to become an actress. Of course my mother objects to it, but Miss Gale, I know I cannot learn anything else. My girl friends say it is all right to become an actress, but some people say the movies are "no good." Do you believe that, Miss Gale? I am writing to you now that I am young because, of course, I want to become an actress a little young. Please, Miss Gale, advise me. Shall I go into the movies? Or shall I stay at home and get married? My uncle says I have wonderful hair to become a star. I am waiting for my answer.

CURLYHEAD.

It needs more than curly hair, my dear, to become an actress. It is not, by any means, all glitter and gaiety. It is hard, grueling work. Your uncle, no doubt, is teasing you, so listen to your mother's advice and stay at home. She knows much more about it than your girl friends possibly could, you know.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, February 21

No man can place a limit on thy strength!—ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

A DAY of vast opportunity and enterprise is presaged by the lunar as well as mutual aspects. There is an important change or journey and these may be manipulated to excellent advantage. In business, employment and in social and personal contacts all should thrive, but be on guard against fraud or misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is have an excellent year ahead, with some unexpected openings and changes—this in business as well as personal affairs. But care is necessary against fraud or subtlety.

A child born on this day may have many talents and qualifications for success and progress, with a pleasant and prosperous life; but it should be alert to treachery and subtlety in all affairs;

Hemorrhoids Disappear

All Pile Misery Banished Without Cutting or Salves.

External treatments seldom banish Piles for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts, veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at May Drug Co., who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied.

ALLEGHENY STUDENT MISSING

BEAVER FALLS YOUTH IS SOUGHT

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 20.—Missing almost a month, Thomas Braun Moltrup, 20, Allegheny College student, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Moltrup, of this place, is the object of a nation-wide search.

The youth disappeared on January 22 while en route to college at Meadville, Pa. His absence, however, was not learned by his parents until last week, when a friend of the family received from a teacher in the college a letter asking about the boy's whereabouts.

Young Moltrup had spent a few days' vacation at home. The day he was to return to school his parents went to Battle Creek, Mich. It was on account of the absence of the family that the disappearance was not learned until last week.

As soon as Mr. and Mrs. Moltrup learned of the disappearance they went to Meadville and started an investigation, but have made no headway in solving the mystery.

ALLEGED BANK THIEF ASKS TRIAL OR LIBERTY

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 20.—Application has been made to Judge William Parker for the release of John Kauffman, charged with complicity in a bank embezzlement case, who has been held in jail during two court terms and has not been brought to trial. His wife, Adah H. Kauffman, convicted in the same case, has appealed for a new trial.

RELIEF BRIGHTENS MINE CAMPS

Hundreds of ragged, half-starved coal strike sufferers at Traveskyn and Morgan had sadness turned into gladness yesterday when members of the Beacon Club of Pittsburgh distributed over a thousand dollars worth of food in the two camps.

Sad faced women brightened perceptibly; men appeared to take on new hope, and the children, wan and scantly clad, romped in the snow as four trucks, loaded with bread, milk, potatoes, cabbage, canned goods and sugar, pulled up to the depleted union warehouses. It was the first relief expedition from outside to reach the almost forgotten mining towns, restled in the hills beyond Bridgeville.

Tears of joy streamed down some of the haggard faces as a score or more Beacon Club members, headed by Joseph Mazer and a crew of his William Penn Garage attendants began unloading tons of food for the sufferers. There was no speechmaking or ceremonies on turning over the food. John Fagan, brother of Patrick Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, accompanied the relief expedition from Pittsburgh and supervised the distribution, which was handled entirely by the local relief committees.

Neediest cases received attention first. One woman, a mother of six children, the oldest 10, told members of the club she had been unable to obtain fresh milk for her growing youngsters for four months. Another mother of a three-month-old baby related a similar tale of woe and told how some of her neighbors helped her clothe her child when she was unable to do so.

Several mothers, who appealed for shoes and clothing for their children, were overjoyed when Herman Friedman and his son, Sidney, 8, distributed over $100 for this purpose. Other club members also distributed needy gifts.

2 MURDERERS DIE IN CHAIR

By S. I. NEIMAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 20.—While a blinding snowstorm chilled the death chamber, Frank Arnold and Frank Lockett, Philadelphia Negroes, were electrocuted here early today for murder.

Promptly on the stroke of 7 o'clock Frank Arnold was ushered into the bare room and strapped to the gaping chair. It required only two minutes to adjust the electrodes, and seven minutes later he was pronounced dead by Dr. C. J. Newcombe, prison physician. Arnold had paid with his life for the murder of his wife, Lottie, on January 26, 1927.

Two minutes later Frank Lockett was ushered into the fatal chair, and at 7:17 a. m. he had expiated the murder of Luther Bell, Philadelphia policeman.

It required two "shots" of the current to take the lives of the two men. While the wind howled its mournful dirge the first charge was sent through the body of Arnold at 7:02. The whine of the generators could just be heard above the wind, as the first 2,000 volts went through his body at 10 amperes. At 7:05 a second charge was sent through him by the veteran executioner, Robert Elliott. This time 1,500 volts at 6 amperes were required.

Lockett required slightly more current. Strapped in the chair at 7:09, the first charge of 2,000 volts at 12 amperes was sent hurtling through his form at 7:11. A second charge of 1,500 volts at 7 amperes was sent through him at 7:16, and a minute later her was pronounced dead.

Both men were unemotional and went to their death stoically. Neither had a final word or message.

Older Democrats Getting Wiser, Says Will

WILL ROGERS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The bill of Senator Walsh of Montana, the other day to investigate the power trust, kinder put the boys in the Senate on record as to who was on the pay roll. I was glad to see some Democrats among those favored, for it shows the old party is learning enough to not just sit as usual and let the Republicans grab everything—fine chance that bill had passing before the campaign funds were made up.. The older Democrats are getting smarter every day. They wanted in on the campaign contributions, too. It's a great country if you got the influence.

Just a taxpayer,

Auto Hits 206 Miles an Hour To Smash World's Record

CAMPBELL ALMOST KILLED

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The figurative laurel of driving at the highest speed ever attained in an auto today had been lifted from the brow of one Englishman to the brow of another.

Capt. Malcolm Campbell, of London, yesterday flung his huge Napier Blue Bird special over the hard-packed sands of the beach here at the rate of 206.9502 miles per hour, eclipsing by more than three miles an hour the mark established on the same sands last year by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, also of England.

The new record came while two other drivers awaited an opportunity to test their machines against time—Frank Lockhart, of Indianapolis, with a Stutz Blackhawk special, and J. M. White, of Philadelphia, with a 24-cylindered Triplex, not yet accorded official sanction for the try, because of mechanical discrepancies.

Capt. Campbell, after his successful dash of a mile up the beach in 16.76 seconds, at a rate of more than 214 miles per hour, and his mile run back down at 199 miles an hour against a stiff gale, to make up his official mile, said he had not anticipated a formal effort at the record when he started out. But for the fact he took only a four-mile rolling start, said the captain, he would have bettered the record still more.

"My motor had not even begun to pick up good when I crossed the mile stretch," he said. "It was making about 208 miles an hour when I crossed the wire and did not pick up until I had passed the half-mile mark. Just before I finished the mile, I glanced at my instruments and was making 220 miles an hour. Before I could look up I had crossed the final wire and was headed for the soft sand dunes."

At this juncture the 5,000 spectators feared a fatal accident and Mrs. Campbell, in the stands, covered her face with her hands until a tense moment of anxiety had passed. The captain tells the story:

"My machine struck a terrible hump in the sands and I lost complete control of my steering. I bounced half way out of the seat. My feet left the accelerator and brake completely and my goggles were nearly torn from my head by the wind.

"It happened so quickly that for an instant I looked for a bad spill. I recovered myself quickly, however, and righted the car."

MR. AND MRS. FEODOR CHALIAPIN

Feodor Chaliapin, Russ singer, has brought upon his head the wrath of the orthodox Russian church, by marrying outside the church and on a day when no marriage should take place, according to orthodox interdiction. Chaliapin's first wife was Catholic, as he, but he obtained his freedom through the Soviet law which permits divorce through request of one of the parties.

MUD HALTS LEVINE HOP

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The long-delayed flight of Charles A. Levine, either to Havana or for the endurance record has been postponed again.

Wilmer Stultz, pilot of the Columbia for its proposed flight, announced early today that the soft condition of the runway at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, would make a hop-off with a maximum gas load impossible today. He said, however, he would test the plane with a normal load.

Levine and Stultz had been hoping for frozen ground, which would enable them to take off at least with enough gasoline to make the Havana flight. If they had gone to Havana, Miss Mabel Boll, the "Queen of Diamonds," had intended to go along.

SHOVELS SNOW, BOY VANISHES

Leaving the house to shovel the snow from the sidewalk on Saturday evening, Frederick Maughan, 14, son of Dave Maughan, 56 Labelle street, Wilkinsburg, disappeared and no trace of him has since been found.

The boy's father, reporting the disappearance to county detectives today, said the youth is about five feet two inches tall and weighs about 95 pounds.

MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN BROADHEAD ROAD

Found unconscious in the Broadhead road near Coraopolis and suffering from exposure, George Bahla, 51, of 2021 South Lane avenue, Troy Hill, is in the Sewickley Valley Hospital in a serious condition. He was found Saturday night by Constable Edward Schimer of Coraopolis who was driving along the road.

NORTH SIDE MAN HELD FOR WRECKING HOME

Harry Thompson, 45, who police say wrecked furniture and broke windows in a four-family apartment house in Iten street, North Side, yesterday, was arrested by police who had been called to stop the disturbance. Thompson and his wife, Ida, 45, were both charged with disorderly conduct and lodged in the North Side station.

ESTIMATE NORTH SIDE CHURCH LOSS AT $4,000

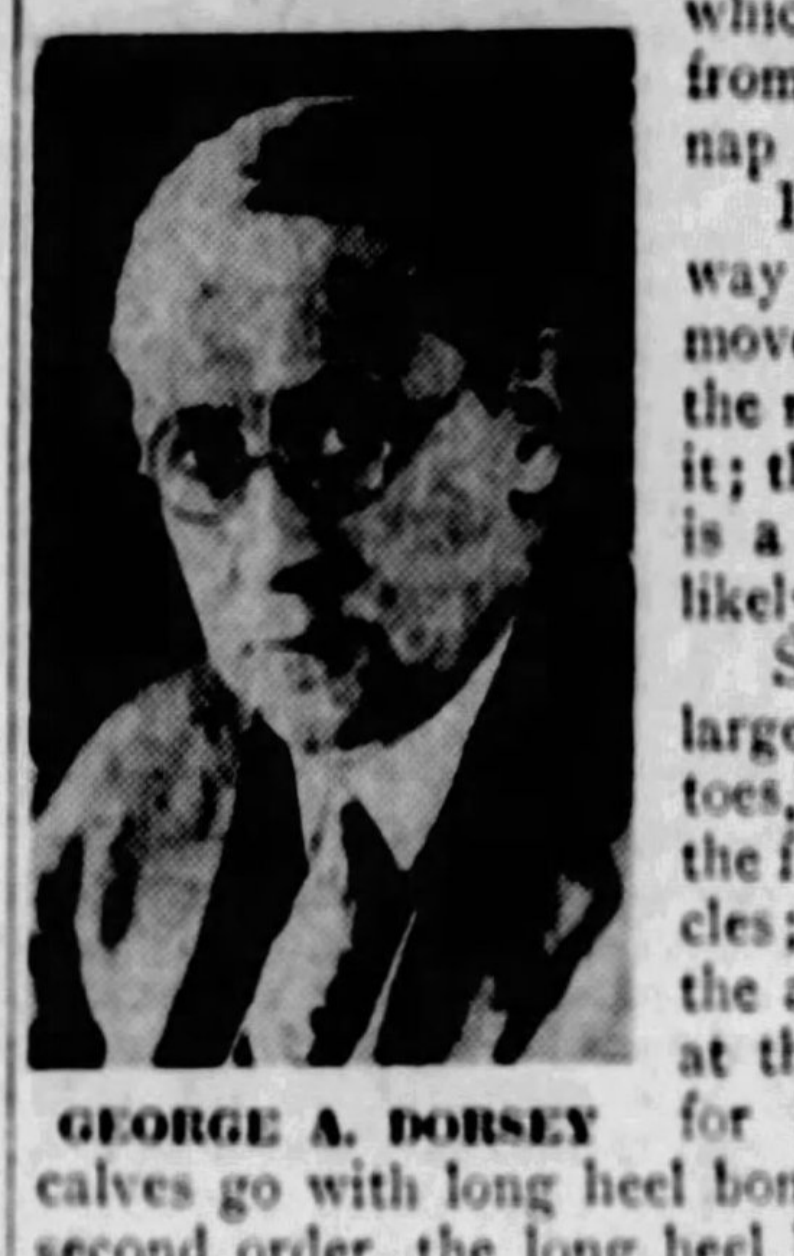
The Melrose Presbyterian Church, Melrose and Charles streets, North Side, was damaged to the extent of $4,000 yesterday by fire, believed to have been caused by a defective flue. Battalion Chief Daniel Jones estimated the damage. Several nearby residences were threatened by sparks carried by high wind.

In The Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday Author Dorsey, continuing his narrative of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings," told that 98 per cent of our growth comes after birth. Dwarfs and giants result from the accelerated or delayed conversion of cartilage into bone. We achieve full brain weight before we are 25; thereafter the brain begins to lose weight. Stature is determined principally by the skeleton.

Why Walking Rests, Standing Tires

From First to Last the Body Of Man Never Ceases To Change

CHAPTER IX.



GEORGE A. DORSEY

IN WALKING, each leg rests half the time. We tire standing because neither leg gets rested. The shoulder muscles which hold the head erect also ache from the strain in standing. As we nap in a chair the head nods.

Flat feet are not due to a giving way of ligaments; ligaments limit joint movement. Feet become "flat" when the muscles of the arch fail to support it; the arch breaks down. The result is a mid-tarsal joint. This is most likely to happen in long, narrow feet.

Short feet and high insteps go with large calves. To raise our body on our toes, we lift our heel. The toes are the fulcrum, the power is the calf muscles; the weight falls on the foot at the ankle joint but nearest the power at the heel. Hence the greater need for large calf muscles. But small calves go with long heel bones. As the foot is a lever of the second order, the long heel brings the weight nearer the fulcrum—that is, the toes. Hence "flat-foots" do not step off their toes; the fallen arch destroys the lever of the foot.

How Head Moves

We nod our head between skull and first vertebrae, or atlas; rotate, between atlas and second vertebrae, or axis. Both movements are limited by ligaments; otherwise the spinal cord would be crushed.

The main business of the face is to hold the teeth-bearing jaws; eyes and nose moved in by accident. The infant's face and neck seem small because the brain is so large. Their real growth begins with the eruption of the teeth.

The skull is a fulcrum for the jaw muscles in chewing. Muscles to hold the fulcrum steady develop with the teeth. The neck grows larger. With the teeth all in place the neck reaches normal size, the rounded "baby-face" disappears; strong jaws, powerful muscles, and prominences and ridges on bones of face and head support the muscles of mastication. The tiny mastoid processes below the infant's ears become adult structures as big as thumbs, required for muscle support.

Beginnings of Teeth

The first, or milk, teeth should be in place by the end of the second year. Meanwhile the transverse ridges in the roof of the infant's mouth disappear. The permanent dentition begins with the first molars in the seventh year; incisors in the eighth and ninth; premolars in the tenth and eleventh; canine and second molars in the thirteenth to fourteenth; third molars, or wisdom teeth, in the seventeenth to fortieth year.

Startling changes of far-reaching consequence mark the years of adolescence for both sexes. As these changes are both physical and mental, and as they proceed under impulses from the gonads acting as glands of internal secretion, they will be described in the chapter devoted to the endocrine organs.

After maturity the body's chief task is to maintain its equilibrium; produce enough energy and heat to keep up repairs and carry on. But, from ovum to death, the body never ceases to change. Senility may be postponed; the body begins to age the day the ovum begins to grow. Before the newborn can mature it must grow more human. Before it is 15 years old it will increase its weight from 15 to 30 pounds. Thereafter it grows old at a less rapid rate.

Centenarians Few

Old-age or senile changes precede natural death. These appear toward the end of a span of life which varies in different species. This span of life for some invertebrates is less than 100 hours; for some insects, 17 years; for some fishes and reptiles, over 200 years; for some birds and mammals, 120 years.

Absolutely authenticated cases of human beings alive beyond 100 years are almost unknown. It is far from certain that Thomas Parr lived 152 years. A critical examination of nearly 1,000,000 cases of alleged unusual longevity showed none over 100, and only 30 that lived that long: 21 were women.

Longevity is not, as Weismann claimed, related to size of body. Some mammals live less than two years, some locusts 17. A dog is old at 20. I have seen a parrot 117 years old; it matured in its first year. A tortoise can live 350 years. No elephant known has exceeded 130 years. Nor does death "naturally" follow the reproductive stage; innumerable animals long survive their sex life. But every animal must reach sex maturity or its kind dies with it.

Decrepitude of Age

Old age is decrepitude; the body is worn out. The mechanism the infant acquired to walk with breaks down. The spine is not so supple, the cartilage disks between vertebrae shrink. This decreases stature—as much as three inches after 50. The spine both collapses and "stoops with age." The knees are bent, the hip joints stiff. The muscles shrink. The body loses its natural fat. Folds of skin appear on neck and face. The toothless jaws atrophy and the mouth loses its shape. Cheeks and temples cave in, the bony scaffold beneath stands out.

The brain loses weight—in the last 40 years of life as much as three ounces. The heart is enlarged from over-action to keep the blood coursing through thick, hard arteries. The pulse mounts again. It was 134 at birth, 110 at the end of the first year, 72 at 21. After 80, it is 80. The lungs lose their elasticity, the walls become thicker.

Many women after 50 show a thicker neck, hair on the face, deeper-toned voice, more prominent cheek-bones, ridges over the eyes. Their "feminine" traits are less feminine. It is as though the inactivity of the gonads permitted a return to a neutral condition, half way between male and female.

Old age, senility, decrepitude; the body is worn out, it can no longer function. Death.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

"CROSS my palm with money," said a swarthy gypsy woman to a teller in a Pittsburgh bank, "and I'll tell your fortune." The teller was amused. He agreed. He took a dollar bill and held it over the gypsy's palm. "It must be big money," said the gypsy. "How is this?" smiled the teller, reaching for a bundle of $100 bills.

WITH this bundle of bills the teller crossed the gypsy's palm and she began telling him that he soon would take a trip; that some day he would be wealthy, and that he must be on the alert for a dark-haired woman who some day would cross his path.

* * *

THE teller laughed gaily at this hocus-pocus and after the fortune telling was over, he put the stack of $100 bills back into a drawer. Upon balancing at the close of the day's business the teller to his dismay found he was short four $100 bills. By consummate dexterity the gypsy woman, even while the teller held the money, had extracted four bills.

I AM $400 SHORT

IN SOME place a gypsy is enjoying the $400 and in Pittsburgh a bank teller is looking for a new position.

The story is factual. The rest is imagination.

ON THE day the bank, which he had served for a long time, told the teller he was through he walked to get his street car—and then decided he would walk part of the way home. He was turning over in his mind a great many circumstances. There was a tortured blending in his mind of remorse over his carelessness, with self-pity for his plight. He walked on, heedless of a rain, and dreaded each step that brought him closer to home.

* * *

LISTLESSLY he hung his coat and hat on a hall hanger as his wife greeted him with: "The doctor says we must send Jimmy away for awhile. It will cost $500, but we can borrow that much as it will be worth it."

"I lost my job today," said the teller in a dull tone.

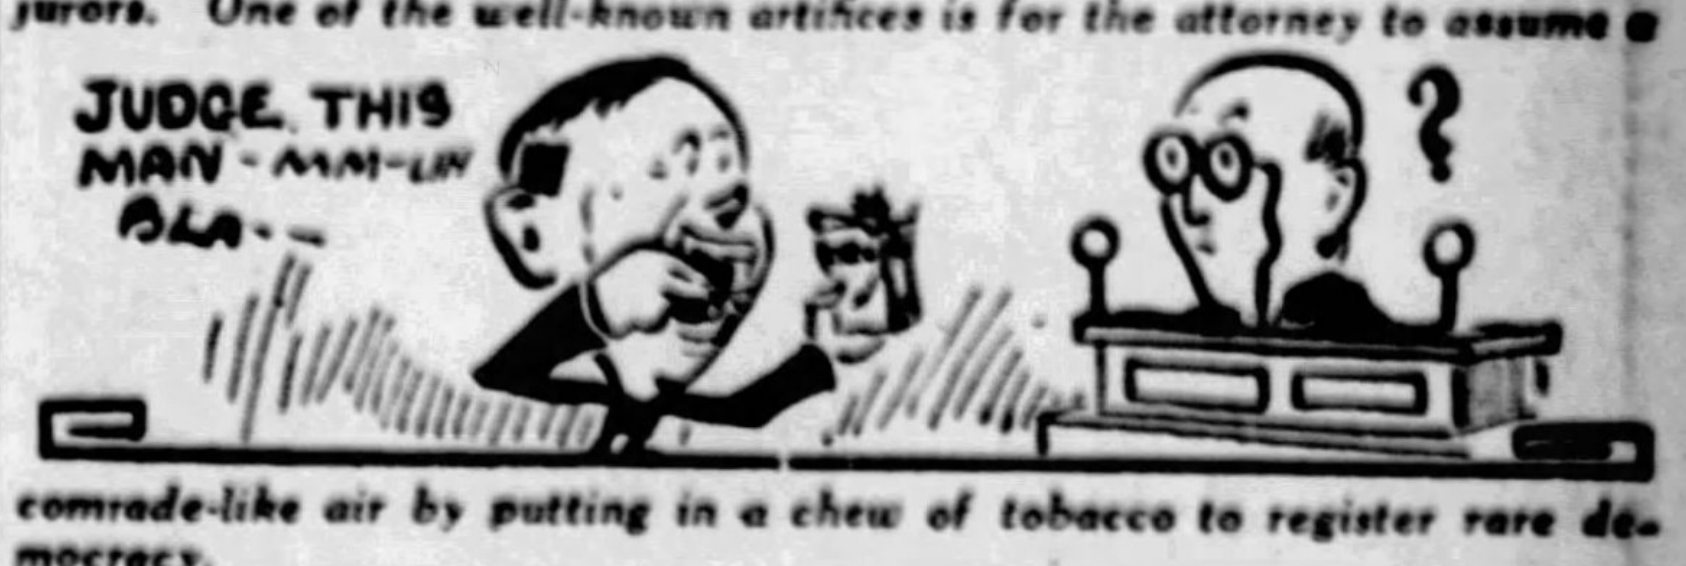
IT HAS been a pet joke among observers of the dramatics in lawyers to tell how the lawyers play on the sympathies and prejudices of jurors. One of the well-known artifices is for the attorney to assume a comrade-like air by putting in a chew of tobacco to register rare democracy.



It was with some interest in this connection that we heard of Barney Cohen, rising young member of the local bar, who lately successfully defended a man accused of murder. Mr. Cohen does not chew tobacco, but during the trial he observed the conventions by taking a large chew.

HE BECAME just a little disconcerted when he found that he was growing pale and over him was spreading a faintness peculiar to the novitiate in the habit of munching tobacco.

The circumstance of Mr. Cohen's illness came out after a story here in which we said the counsel for the defense was most original in not chewing. You see, we had come upon the trial the day after Mr. Cohen's attempt to chew. It was true he was not living up to the fictional figure as defense counsel when we observed him at work, but the truth—and it comes from Mr. Cohen himself—is that he did his best in the chewing role, but fell down miserably.

Law schools ought to have chewing as part of the curriculum.

Discord!

DAVE HARMAN

Dave Harman, who has coaxed harmony from his bands for thousands to hear in the theater and over radio, found only discord in married life, court records revealed today as the band leader, who just finished a two-month engagement at a Pittsburgh theater, filed a libel for divorce against Edna Harman, of Williamsport. Harman, through his attorney, Elery Mahaffey, charged cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to person.

TROLLEY HITS CAR ON ERRAND OF MERCY

Raymond Helbling, 29, of 7 Second street, Aspinwall, sacrificed his life yesterday when his machine—laden with injured he had taken to a hospital—crashed into an interurban street car on the Freeport road at Aspinwall.

Mrs. Hattie Meinert, 55, of Glenover, who Helbling was taking to her home from the Pittsburgh Hospital, where she was treated for shock and bruises suffered in an earlier accident, was killed in the crash. Edward Worleck and his wife, Katherine, of Glenover, also passengers in Helbling's car were injured.

According to Chief of Police Roy Riddle of Aspinwall, Helbling was returning home along the Freeport road when Albert Meinart, husband of the dead woman, hailed him, asking him to take some injured persons to the hospital for treatment.

Meinert said that his car had skidden on the rails and had overturned, injured Mrs. Meinert, Worleck and Worlick's wife. Helbling took the injured to the Pittsburgh Hospital, leaving Meinert to attend to his wrecked car.

After the injured were treated at the hospital, Helbling offered to take them to their home. While driving along the Freeport road Helbling, it is believed, was unable to swerve his car out of the rails to avoid a street car bound in the opposite direction. The car was half way out of the tracks when the machine was struck. The machine was demolished.

Mrs. Meinert was dead when she was taken from the wreckage. Helbling was taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital with a fractured skull, where he died several hours later.

POSTAL CLERK GETS 15 MOS.

Franklin Searle, Harrisburg, former railway mail clerk, pleaded guilty before Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today to possessing and forging government checks and was sentenced to serve 15 months in Atlanta Penitentiary. A charge of robbery has been made against Searle in the Central District Court for the theft of 150 government checks, which were being mailed to soldiers.

INJURY TO ELBOW CAUSES MAN'S DEATH

An elbow injury received three weeks ago when he slipped and fell on an icy pavement near his home caused the death in Passavant Hospital last night of Ollie Jackson, Negro, 34, of 2241 Center avenue, according to a report to the coroner today. Blood poisoning developed as a result of the injury, the hospital reported.

TOAD LIVES 30 YEARS IN 'TOMB'

EASTLAND, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—An apparently healthy horned toad claimed by county officials to have spent more than 30 years in a sealed cornerstone, was on exhibition here today.

The reptile was removed from the cornerstone of the courthouse here Saturday in the presence of Judge Edward Pritchard, the Rev. F. E. Singleton, newspapermen and others. A horned toad was placed in the cornerstone when it was sealed July 29, 1897.

MANY AT RESURRECTION

Interest in the West Texas tradition that the toads are capable of hibernating for 100 years was revived when the courthouse was ordered razed. When workmen had torn down all of the scructure except the foundation, Judge Pritchard was summoned to head the witnesses invited to the "resurrection."

In addition to the toad, the cornerstone yielded newspapers, coins and Masonic emblems. The judge took charge of the reptile. He said it appeared to be dead, but within a short time its eyes opened. Then it began to breathe.

Examination showed the toad apparently was normal, except it seemed unable to open its mouth. The reptile was plaved in a box and taken to police headquarters, where it was viewed by scores of persons yesterday. As it refused food, expert advise was sought as to whether its mouth was sealed. If so, an operation was planned.

MONEY LOVE by BEATRICE BURTON

Drummond Buys an Interest in a Piston Ring

"AND that's the way I'll keep looking at the whole thing," she promised herself.

As she said goodnight to Sue at the curbstone, a motorcycle drew up beside the car and a boy ran up the steps with a letter in his hand.

"Special delivery," she heard him say to Mrs. Lexington, who opened the door to him.

She was turning the envelope over and over in her hands by the time Lily reached the front hall.

"It's for you, dear," she said, in such a pleased tone that Lily knew it was from Staley Drummond before she touched it.

She tore it open. And she read it standing there in the hall with her mother reading it, too, from over her shoulder.

Lily did not care whether she saw it or not. Sometimes it seemed to her that her friendship—or love affair or whatever her alliance with Staley was—was much more interesting to her mother than it was to herself. Her mother seemed to be so wildly eager for her to marry Staley, and always had been.

"Poor boy," she said now, as she began to read the letter. "What did you do—surprise him when he was holding hands with his stenographer, or something like that?"

Lily nodded, her eyes on the two paragraphs that Staley had written: "Darling, if you'd be a little more kind to me I wouldn't do that sort of thing. However, it was nothing that needs to bother you for a minute. I let Miss James go with a month's pay in advance to prove to you that I mean this.

"Please let me see you tonight. I want to tell you about a certain piston ring company that I bought today for next to nothing. You will be interested and, I think, pleased, perhaps. Best love from

"S. D."

The telephone rang while Lily finished the letter. . . . The sentence about the piston ring company that Staley had bought seemed to leap up at her from the page.

So he had bought Pat and Roy Jetterson out! But how could they have become so discouraged in a few weeks that they would sell out to him? Perhaps they got a lot of money from him—

She found herself actually hoping so, for Pat's sake.

"If that's Staley," she called to Mrs. Lexington without raising her eyes from the letter, "tell him I can't answer the phone, but that I'm expecting him to come over here tonight."

While she was having dinner with her mother and father at 7, Ito, Staley's trusty Jap servant, arrived, bringing a big box of flowers from his hot-house—blue and pink hyacinths, tulips, jonquils, daffodils, all the flowers of the spring that was just ahead. Staley could even buy the springtime before it came to other people!

By the time he arrived the living room was bright and perfumed, and Lily, in a pale pink dress that she had bought at Angouleme's, where he had told her to charge anything she needed, was sitting on the davenport reading a book he had sent her, and smoking one of the monogrammed, gold-tipped cigarets.

Mrs. Lexington might be doing the dishes in the kitchen alone, unaided. Tomorrow morning Lily, in a folded house dress, might be dusting this very room in her slippy-come-sloppy way. But tonight she was the old Lily of burnished hair, delicate clothes, polished nails and luxurious ease.

When the bell rang she went slowly to the door and opened it, blowing blue cigaret smoke through her nostrils and never saying a word of greeting to Staley. She had made up her mind that she was going to put him in his place that night.

But the minute she saw Staley she was sorry for him. He looked so down-at-the-mouth that he was pathetic, and his eyes pleaded with her like the eyes of a nice dumb animal or a small boy who has been bad and knows it.

"I suppose you suspect me of all kinds of wickedness now, don't you?" he asked her when they were sitting before the fire on the old, flowered damask sofa that was not so gay and bright colored as it had been in the days when Mrs. Lexington made the servants fly around the house with scrub pails and whisk brooms. "Just because my secretary was sitting on my desk—"

"And rumpling up your hair and holding your hands," said Lily, and, suiting the action to the word, she began to rumple up his hair with her soft little fingers.

She saw his jaw tighten as she did it, and a hard glint come into his eyes. Suddenly his arms went 'round her and he held her so close that she could feel his heart beat jerkily under his coat. His mouth fastened on hers hungrily, insistently, and he kissed her until she was out of breath.

Hating herself, she let him do it. . . . If she did not, there were other women who would. Nice-looking, alluring women like the little blonde secretary who had sat upon his desk. . . . And she wasn't going to lose him now. Now that she had lost Pat and his love through her association with him. . . . Oh, no!

"I'm going to take him now," she thought. "Him and his money—even if I've lost the only love that ever came to me, that's no reason for giving up this chance to live decently again."

The heavy perfume of the flowers in the room swept up to her nostrils as she leaned against Staley, close-held in his arms. They seemed to tell her just how well he did live—not only decently, but luxuriously, with his Japs and his beautiful rooms and his hothouse, where spring bloomed for him ahead of everybody's else spring.

"Staley," she said, dreamily, "you have the greatest power in the world when you have money, haven't you? Tell me what you did to Pat and his piston ring company? You bought it for next to nothing, you said. But what is your idea of 'next to nothing?'"

She waited for his answer, holding her breath.

"If he gave Pat very much money for it, he'll probably marry Elizabeth Ertz the minute I get my divorce," she figured out, thinking hard. "I hope Pat's just about flat broke."

She did. She found herself hoping and praying that he wouldn't have a nickel to bless himself with when his debts were paid. She knew that he had debts. He had borrowed on everything, even his life insurance, to swing the La France piston ring.

CHAPTER LVII.

STALEY leaned back against the end of the sofa and deliberately clipped the end from one of his fine, fat, expensive cigars, very slowly and deliberately. He smiled to himself as though he were enjoying the thought of the story he was getting ready to tell.

"Well," he began, his narrowed eyes on the yellow flames that danced in the grate, "your husband's piston ring was a good little ring, right enough. But this Scintilla one was so much better that his didn't have a chance. And besides, he didn't have any money to advertise his. He didn't have a Dutchman's chance to put it over, and so he was pretty glad to sell out to us for a song. So was Jetterson. They won't have anything left out of their venture by the time they pay everybody what's due them."

He shook his head. "No, they won't have a dollar of profit. Not a dollar."

Not a dollar, Lily repeated to herself.

She had been hoping all along that Pat would not have any money left when he had paid his bills and closed his books.

But now that she knew that this was just what was going to happen to him, she was unhappy and depressed over it. . . . She knew how Pat had slaved over that piston ring. How he had sold his cab, his own little run-about car, borrowed on his life insurance, worn his old clothes until they were shamefully shiny, and made her wear hers so he could "put over" that piston ring that was to make them rich and contented.

She shook her head mournfully. "He won't have a dollar," she echoed aloud. "Why, he'll just be broken-hearted, Staley."

And then another thought came to her. "Does Pat know that you're behind the company that bought him out?" she asked.

Staley shook his head. "No, I don't imagine he does—although I don't know. The president of the company is a man named Jennings. He swung the deal. It's nothing big and important, you understand. Both companies were tiny ones."

All this was very puzzling to Lily. She knew almost nothing about money and business deals. What she did know was that Pat had given up his cherished dream of success and prosperity when he sold out to the Scintilla Company—and, knowing Pat as she did know him, she was sure that he was as blue as the ocean over it.

"Poor, Pat!" she said, unhappily, and her eyes went to the clock above the mantelpiece. . . . Half past nine. Too late to go to him now to try to comfort him, even if Staley did leave pretty soon. And Staley showed no sign of leaving. He stretched out his legs to the fire, puffed at his cigar and reached out an arm for Lily.

"You don't care what happens to him and his company, do you?" he asked. "Not that I had anything to do with the deal, anyway, for I didn't. I just happened to have some money in Scintilla, and they just happened to want to buy out this other little company. The whole thing is pretty small potatoes."

Lily nodded. "I suppose it does seem like small potatoes to you," she said quietly, "but it was life and death, almost, to Pat. I know. . . . . He's thought of nothing but that piston ring ever since I've known him."

Staley grunted. "He thought of you long enough to get you away from me last spring," he remarked, moving closer to her and laying his arm around her shoulders, and Lily had nothing to say, although she knew it was not the truth.

Pat had not taken here away from Staley. She had taken herself away from him, and then she had set about marrying Pat, who knew that he ought not to marry her.

"Well, he can't marry now for a while, even after I divorce him," she told herself late that night, lying in bed and staring at the stars in the dark-blue sky outside her windows. "He'll be too poor, even for Elizabeth Ertz, who probably isn't used to much in the way of money."

The next afternoon, while she was mending her stockings for the first time in her life—and doing a very poor job of it, too—the idea of going to Pat came to her.

Wasn't it the very least she could do? To go to him and tell him how sorry she was that all his fine plans for the piston-ring had come to nothing? And also to tell him that, even if Staley Drummond had put money into the Scintilla Company, he had not done it because he wanted to send Pat's own company on the rocks?

"Of course, I ought to tell him those things," she made up her mind, and dropping her mending basket on the floor beside her chair, she ran upstairs to dress.

She dressed very carefully for a woman who is going to see a husband for whom she no longer cares, supposedly — a husband whom she is getting ready to divorce.

It took her an hour and a half to bathe and shampoo her hair—Pat always liked to see her hair light and fluffy—"wild looking" as he called it. Then she got into some new scarlet clothes that she had just charged at Angouleme's, where Florence France would know about them, and put on a new red slicker and hat.

"My dear, this BROTHer of ARab's ACtually has me all-of-a-DONG-and-DINGle at this point because I mean the WAY he sort of TALKS about all these simply diVINE and eROTic kind of far off PLAces he's been to on CRUISes SIMply inTRIGUES me beyond WORDS, my dear, because I mean it must be PERfectly THRILLing to be in the NAvy and go to eROTic PLAces and all, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, he was telling me the other DAY about these odd South SEA Islands which are FRIGHTfully roMANtic and all, because there's practically ALways one of these LARGE-sized TROPic MOONS and a lot of these odd KaNAKa BEACH boys sort of sitting round HEAVily PLUNKing ukeLEles or something—you know the type. Love's Embers

Memories Arise to Stir the Embers of Madge's Love to a Faint Glow

KATHERINE'S comment upon the beauty of our flower-decked rooms had set me brooding upon my shattered happiness, and it was her voice which brought me back from my miserable meditations.

"There's nothing more for you to do, is there?" she asked practically, and I guessed that the query was meant to help me get control of myself before Mary's keen young eyes should note my agitation.

"Not that I can think of just at this minute," I returned, trying to speak lightly, but succeeding only indifferently. "Probably there will be a dozen things which I shall find after awhile that I have forgotten."

"Not you," Katherine asserted, "and I think it would be a splendid idea for you and Mary to go and get dressed. I will stay down here, so that if the guests should happen to come early, which Allah forbid—there's nothing more distressing—there'll be somebody to receive them. Mother Graham has been primping this last hour, and she ought to be ready to relieve me pretty soon. As soon as you come down, I'll get Junior and myself ready to greet the company properly. What thinkest thou of the plan?"

"What I always think of anything you propose," I told her with an affectionate smile. But my smile and my thanks were not for her plan, but for the thoughtfulness with which she had saved me from Mary's keen young judgment.

"Run along, then," Katherine admonished, "and I'll hold the bridge until you return. And whatever you do, don't hurry. I want you to look your best tonight."

I pondered her admonition as in my room I heeded her advice and dressed leisurely, choosing a simple, filmy sleeveless gown of pale green, with a necklace of jade and silver which Dicky had once given me for a Christmas present. It was the only thing which harmonized with the gown, and the dress was the only one which I could wear without appearing to be overdressed for the affair, or, on the other hand, of not paying enough sartorial respect to my guests. But my heart was heavy with memories as I fastened the beautiful bauble around my throat.

I remembered so well the manner in which Dicky had given it to me. He had handed me the box early in the morning before we had gone downstairs for Junior's joyous, noisy Christmas tree and the family distribution of gifts. When I had opened it with fingers that trembled a little, for Christmas gifts from my husband had not then lost their power to make me a bit tremulous, and had exclaimed at the beauty of the necklace, Dicky had lifted it and clasped it around my throat, sealing the little ceremony with a kiss.

Astonishingly I felt my eyelids smarting with tears. I had believed that my heart was cold to those memories of happiness with Dicky before doubt of me had sent us farther apart in spirit than if Death itself had come between us. Was it possible that after all there were live embers beneath the dreary pile of ashes which seemed all that was left of my love?

It was a thought which I did not welcome. I had schooled myself to indifference and calmness. I dreaded the disquiet, the interruption to my work which giving away to regretful memories would bring me.

And then, as if my thoughts had summoned him, I heard Dicky knock upon the door, and realized that his train had arrived several minutes before.

To All Thin Blooded People Doctors Say: "Eat More Liver"

Hundreds of Thousands Eating Liver to Get Rich Red Blood

Hundreds of physicians in New York and other cities who have tested and prescribed a diet of beefs liver in cases of poverty of the blood or anemia are now prescribing a preparation called Hemo-Liver which is made by a scientific process from fresh beefs livers.

By this process all the "mysterious Substance" or vital elements that are obtained by eating liver are extracted and put up in the form of an elixir which is very palatable and pleasant to the taste. Hemo-Liver is full of the vital elements or "mysterious substance" that is one of the great discoveries of recent years and by taking a tablespoonful three times a day you'll get more and quicker benefit than by eating pounds of liver.

Every progressive druggist sells Hemo-Liver in a big 12-ounce bottle that will last eight days.

Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 12 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. It strengthens the nerves, increases the red blood cells, promotes health and rebuilds energy so quickly that often physicians are astonished.

Why not get a big bottle of Hemo-Liver today—eight days' treatment—and if after you have take one bottle you don't say Hemo-Liver is the greatest health builder you ever heard of—get your money back.

Not a patent medicine, mind you—but the vitamines extracted from fresh beefs liver. Get Hemo-Liver at May's Drug Stores.

Do You Know What a Woman of 30 Should Weigh?

It all depends on her height, of course.

If she is 5 feet 7 inches in height she should weigh, according to the best authorities, 142 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 5 inches her normal weight is 134 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 3 inches she should weight 127 pounds.

It's dangerous to be always striving to grow thin—the Adirondack Mountains and health resorts everywhere are filled with health shattered women who will tell you that it doesn't pay to be too thin.

That is why so many thousands of underweight men and women are putting their faith in McCoy's Tablets.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 60-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two one-dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

PIRATES

know when to be lenient and when to be firm. Small infractions perhaps, will be overlooked, but when any player tries to "put something over" on the pilot he likely will draw punishment not to be relished.

As usual the Pirates shape up like a well behaved team. For more than a dozen years the Buccos have enjoyed this reputation. Rival owners and directors are not slow in pronouncing the Buccaneers as gentlemen in their deportment.

It is recalled that the great Paderewski, who seemed to have no interest in baseball whatever, was constrained to compliment Manager Bill McKechnie and his players for their deportment at Paso Robles several years ago. The famed pianist owns a big almond ranch near the camp of the Pirates. He stopped at the same hotel, but did not become acquainted with the 40 odd young men who rubbed shoulders with him for several weeks.

If Paderewski feared a rendition of sour notes on the part of the lively youngsters he was mistaken. Not one member of the club was ollzed in any untoward incident. Eventually the behavior of the youthful players registered on the ace of the musical world and he congratulated McKechnie in a profuse manner.

It is not an easy job to always hold 40 impulsive boys and men within the bounds of propriety. It isn't in many other honored professions and ball players, too, are human. Why, then, get all worked up if one or two prove the rule of exception.

Well, anyhow, Bush appears to have assembled together a group of veterans and recruits who will make a serious bid to cop another flag. The acquisition of Burleigh Grimes and Sparky Adams appears to be cheered by Pittsburgh supporters, although there are many who regard Hazen Cuyler and Vic Aldridge departed heroes, as highly effective performers, especially Cuyler.

Coach Wrong In Attacks

By JESS CARVER.

STILL trembling from the thrill and excitement of Saturday night's titanic Pitt-Notre Dame struggle, in which the Panthers annexed their fifteenth consecutive victory and the Irish lost their third contest of the year, the college basketball fans of this city are looking forward today to another week of intense local activity, which will open tomorrow night with the Duquesne-Bethany Conference game on the Bluff, and close Saturday when the Panthers meet Wash-Jeff in a Big Four encounter in the Stadium.

It is extremely difficult to comment on the Pitt-Notre Dame game. The Irish lost a tough basketball game, but they lost it through faults of their own, and not because of any lax or inefficient work on the part of the officials, as was unfairly charged by Coach Keogan after the game. The Notre Dame coach's remarks to Beggs Snyder, who acted in the capacity of umpire, in which he said, "Mr. Snyder, I want to congratulate you on winning the game for Pitt," was one of the poorest exhibitions of sportsmanship by a college man ever witnessed in Pittsburgh. His subsequent refusal to shake hands with Coach Carlson of Pitt or to congratulate the Pitt team, took away a lot of sympathy that otherwise would have been extended the Notre Dame team.

Both Umpire Snyder and Referee Fred W. Young of Bloomington, Notre Dame's own official, were highly incensed over the attack made upon them by Keogan, and neither hesitated to tell the Irish mentor so. It is possible that the local referees' body may demand an apology from Keogan on behalf of both officials. It is a serious matter to openly charge an official with favoring the home team or with unfairness.

For all the Irish outplayed Pitt in the first half, and for all they held an edge throughout the game, the fact must not be overlooked that they did not do much scoring in the second half, and that they were outscored by the Panthers better than two to one. Pitt outsmarted them, by dribbling in and drawing the fouls, which the Irish were prone to commit, and then turning them into points at the foul line. Notre Dame was unable to work the ball in as they did in the first half, and did not attempt it much, but stood out in the center of the floor and banged away at the hoop. They sunk two out of a possible 21 attempts. Pitt made 10 out of 11 free tosses and won the game.

After all, the payoff is at the end of the game, and not at the half.

TECH-PITT CLASH

Wednesday night Carnegie Tech will make a third attempt to down the Panthers. This will hardly come about. The contest is to be played over in Tech's gym, but the Pittites should score about as they please in the first half, and then can take things easy in the second. The score will hardly be any closer in this game than in the last which Pitt won by a 50-28 count.

The Dukes arrived home yesterday very much elated over their feat of stopping City College of New York Saturday night, after the Gothamites had won nine consecutive games. The Dukes are playing sweet basketball at present. Bethany is in for a tough evening tomorrow.

SAFELY intrenched in third place and with the first victory in two years over the New York Americans resting in the lockers, the Pittsburgh Pirates of the ice will entrain tonight for Boston, where the Bruins are to be met in a league contest tomorrow night.

The Pirates, with a record of seven wins in the last nine starts, are making a strenuous bid for the lead in the American section of the league, and a win over the Boston team will considerably enhance their chances.

After meeting the Bruins tomorrow, the Bucs will move on to New York for a game with the Rangers Thursday and will then return home for a battle with the world champions here Saturday night on the Garden ice.

SMALLWOOD

Crowley slipped out from under his management, and went prospecting in California. He had a notion he'd like to locate there, but evidently he hasn't found conditions up to the promises of the Native Son chambers of commerce and is feeling a wee bit homesick for Pittsburgh.

"This is a fine place," Bill writes, "but there are an awful lot (an awful lot or a lot of awful?) fighters out here, and the only ones who seem to get any work are those who are cut in with the promoters. I was up to a gym in Main street today. They have the nerve to charge two bits to see the fighters train, and they tell me the tax to see Paulino and George Godfrey work is a buck. Back home we can see a whole card of bouts for that much.

"Things are kind of slow out here. There are many people out of work. I have been looking around for a shop, but haven't seen anything yet that appeals to me. The town is a large one, however, and I haven't got around very much, and so will keep on looking a bit more. I was out past the Fox Studios in Hollywood the other day and got a glimpse of some of the poor devils trying to catch on for odd jobs. There must have been at least 500 of them.

"The weather is fine, just about like June in Pittsburgh, but, somehow, I can't help feeling a bit out of step, or out of season."

CARNEGIE TECH and Georgetown have switched their football game for next fall to Albany, N. Y., at the request of alumni of both institutions.

Now we know why Willie Davies and Billy Kelly recently fought for the flyweight championship of Pennsylvania in Chicago. They simply couldn't resist the pleas of their alumni associations in the so-called Blustery Village.

WHEN closer basketball games are played, Pitt and Notre Dame will play them. Hyatt's that?

SOME day a great amateur runner will be beaten and will not claim he was fouled. The same day a fighter will laugh off low punches around his neck and baseball players will go to the training camps to train and not play golf.

JACK DEMPSEY has taken over the management of young Armand Emanuel and promises to ruin the fine young boxer by teaching him his weaving and bobbing style of slugging, which was peculiar to Dempsey and Dempsey alone. At that, Emanuel's prospects may be said to be bright. He recently passed the bar examinations in California and can be his own attorney when the inevitable lawsuits that beset a heavyweight champion bob up.

AL GRAYBER, a member of the local detective force and a former middleweight boxer of note, has been granted permission by his superiors to act as a referee in local boxing matches. Al should make good. He has the size, personality and considerably more than the average intelligence required for the job. He will make his debut in an early show.

TUNNEY RETURNS SOUTH TO COMPLETE VACATION

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, has returned here to continue his winter vacation after shadow boxing with the income tax experts in New York for the past two weeks.

Gene has taken up his routine of golf and swimming and today will resume his light training for the mythical battle that has been casually mentioned for the early summer.

CLUB EUCHRE TONIGHT

The Homewood Baseball Club will hold its euchre and dance to raise funds for the coming season at McDougall's auditorium, East End, this evening. Many tickets have been sold and the event promises to be a big success.

PITT SWIMMERS BEAT IRISH

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 20.—Notre Dame athletic teams found the going extremely rocky over the week-end. While the varsity basketball team was losing to Pitt in Pittsburgh, the swimming team dropped a 45-23 decision to the Pitt tankmen here, the Panthers taking six first places in eight starts to win by an overwhelming score.

Capt. Wright, Mango, Lithgow Jackson and Robb starred for Pitt.

Saturday, the winner of which will meet the Pittsburgh Rovers in the grand final in March.

NEW DATES SATISFACTORY

These dates should suit the local champs better than the original arrangement. Heidelberg was idle on Sunday, but the International game should put the Green and Gold on edge for the big game at Cleveland. There is no question but that Heidelberg and the International will be the greatest cup tie battle staged in Pittsburgh in many a day. Both elevens are ideal cup fighters, very fast with the ball, and the fact that two of the greatest sharpshooters ever in the district will be opposing each other in Buff Donnelli and Charlie Powell is an added incentive.

Fans will well remember the crowd that attended the same venue last May when Heidelberg defeated the La Flamme team of Boston, Mass., in the National final. The Internationals stack up as just as good a club as the La Flamme outfit. The Curry eleven are better cup fighters, but there is a little possibility that the Boston cracks were cleverer with the ball.

However, with Charlie Powell and Mike Bookie hammering away at the Fagan-Villant defense, it will be far different than in the La Flamme game.

HEIDELBERG BEST

Of course, Heidelberg is outclassing everything in the district, and it might be hard for the average soccer fan to see just how Heidelberg can be defeated this season. But every team is liable to have an off day, and we would rather see that off day in the West Penn cup than in the National affair.

President Andrew Brown was keen to know the status of the Heidelberg eleven. He was very pleased to know that all of the boys were American born.

Whether the national executive had the Olympic team in mind when he asked that question could not be ascertained, but he stored away that knowledge for future reference.

The word has been passed around that the appeals committee of the United States Football Association will meet in Philadelphia next Sunday. Soccerites in Western Pennsylvania are keen to get the results of that conference since the Pittsburgh Celtics have the result of the Pittsburgh S. C. game up for discussion. Should the national committee award the game to the Celtics by reversing the West Penn decision, what will be the status of the Celtics in the cup, and what will be the status of the Pittsburgh Rovers? It is going to embarrass someone should this decision go to the Celtics.

stead of in 1908 and resulted from the action of McGraw, then manager of the Baltimore American League Club, in kidnaping Third Baseman Jimmy Williams of the Pirates.

President Dreyfuss had paid Williams' railroad fare from Denver to Hot Springs, Ark., for spring training, but McGraw, it was charged, took Williams off the train and induced him to go with him to Baltimore to join the American League club of that city. That's why the Pirate owner would have no dealings with McGraw thereafter.

FINALLY, the recent deal was not made by President Dreyfuss and Manager McGraw. The Pittsburgh club's dealings were entirely with President Charles S. Stoneham of the Giants.

Waivers were asked on Aldridge for the purpose of sounding out the other clubs, and when New York manifested an interest, President Dreyfuss informed President Stoneham that Aldridge would not be let go at the waiver price or for any other sum of cash, and that the Pirates wanted a pitcher in exchange for him. Stoneham then offered Grimes.

Immediately the local club owner called Manager Donie Bush by telephone and asked him if he would trade Aldridge for Grimes. "I would swim a river to do it," replied Donie, and the presidents of the two clubs then closed the deal.

THERE is no accounting for tastes or beliefs. The man who is said to have contended that every sport except wrestling is crooked seems to have thousands of cobelievers in St. Louis.

Joe Stecher.

Boxing was legalized in Missouri last July, but St. Louis did not put on the first show under the new law until two weeks ago, indicating that it had little faith in the glove game, or at least little enthusiasm for it.

Only last week the Mound City was on the point of turning its back on even handball as a sport unworthy of trust, it being alleged that the final match in the city championship tournament, in which Mike Cunningham met Jack Srenco, had not been settled on its merits.

It was said the title had been "handed" to Srenco, who was Cunningham's pupil, "without serious competition on Cunningham's part."

YET that same city has welcomed wrestling with open arms and every sign of undying confidence and trust, for it is estimated that when Joe Stecher, recognized titleholder, and Strangler Lewis, challenger, meet there tonight for the so-called world's crown, the gate receipts will exceed $100,000.

Sport followers in other parts of the country may be inclined to wonder how a city can get that way, but evidently St. Louis fans feel sure that everything will be on the up and up tonight. They think the match is too big to be framed, though the same thing was said of the Gotch-Hackenschmidt affair in Chicago in 1908, which led Mayor Carter Harrison to bar wrestling from the Windy City during the remainder of his stay in office.

You never can tell in advance about a mat encounter. Much depends upon the betting.

IF tonight's catch-as-catch-can number is decided on the square, most fans believe Stecher will win and that his famous scissors hold will triumph over Lewis' deadly headlock.

Strangler Lewis

Stecher himself declares that he beat Lewis before and knows that he can do it again. He adds:

"Although the match is scheduled to go to a finish, best two out of three falls to decide, I am convinced that it will be won in two straight falls or perhaps by one fall. By that I mean that whichever of us wins the first fall will be the winner of the bout for the simple reason that the hold by which the fall is gained will inflict such severe punishment upon the loser as to minimize his chances of winning the next fall if another is required."

PITTSBURGH teams succeeded in getting over unusually tough hurdles in two winter sports here Saturday night, when the Pitt basketball stars stretched their sensational record to 15 consecutive victories by nosing out Notre Dame in the last few seconds of play, 24 to 22, and the Pirate hockey team grabbed third place in the pro league race by defeating the New York Americans, 2 to 0, for the first time in two years.

In seven straight games the Bucs had failed to get a decision over Shorty Green's icers.

COACH CARLSON'S main task this week will be to keep the Panthers from letting down, now that they successfully passed the most dangerous spot in their recent schedule. They would appear to have little to fear at Carnegie Tech's hands Wednesday night, but W. & J. on Saturday night will call for the best the locals can produce.

Martin Burke

The hockey team will be hard pressed to retain third place and keep up the fast pace at which it has been traveling since Martin Burke was added to the roster. The Bucs will play in Boston tomorrow night, will meet the Rangers in New York Thursday, and will clash with the world champions here Saturday.

along with the remnants of the snow storm, and worked out in the Motor Square gym. Davies finished his training Saturday at home and rested up yesterday. They weigh in at 3 p. m. today. The advance sale of tickets took a big jump over the week-end and a good-sized turnout of the faithful appears assured tonight.

Nick Susnell of Rochester, Pa., and Jack Katkish of Lawrenceville tangle in the eight-round semi-final. They put on a young murder in a six-rounder in the same ring two weeks ago, with Katkish winning the decision, but with Susnell coming strong at the finish.

Three new faces will appear in the prelims. Harry Taylor of the North Side meets Jack Simmons, a Negro lad from the Hill, in the second bout, and Eddie Jiggers of Sharpsburg and Johnny Reilly of Homestead will furnish the opening excitement at 8:30.

Sandy Seifert boxes Art Weigand at Buffalo tonight. U. S. Carpentier meets Mickey Dugan of Cleveland at New Castle and George Tomosky of Wilmerding clashes with Petey Roberts in a six-rounder at Wheeling. Leo Lomski boxes Jimmy Francis and Benny Schwartz meets Pinky May in bouts at Philadelphia and Eddie O'Dowd and Leo Bloom mix at Columbus. Red Uhlan and Del Fontine will box at Chicago.

The Motor Square Club is working on a Young Rudy-Louis Dearco semi-final for its Willie Harmon-Cuddy DeMarco show next Monday night.

instance—who could put up just as good a fight against Tunney as Dempsey. In 20 rounds of boxing in their two meetings, Dempsey won only two rounds from Tunney and there are others who could do that well.

"If the N. B. A. is serious about its six contenders for the lightweight and middleweight titles, let's have an elimination series to see which one is the best, and then the public might get interested. Some of the challengers named by the N. B. A. wouldn't draw enough to pay the ushers.

"I have both Mandell and Walker signed to defend their titles if the N. B. A. will contribute some help instead of merely interfering."

Mullen's predicament threatens to prevent the match between Mandell and Jackie Fields here Thursday night. The N. B. A. insists upon Mandell's $5,000 forfeit before permitting that contest to go on. Mandell's prospective opponent next June in the title match is Jimmy McLarnin, but McLarnin encounters Sid Terris on Friday night and until McLarnin has proved himself master of Terris Mullen hesitates to sign either one. One day's difference in the dates complicates the situation.

Mandell's manager, Eddie Kane, promised to call on the Illinois State Athletic Commission today to find out why the $5,000 forfeit was demanded.

"Mandell has signed to defend his title as the N. B. A. asked," said Kane. "What more could be demanded?"

efforts to win the flag for Pittsburgh. At the present writing the big boy from Corry weighs something like 185 pounds, and he has the waist of a middleweight. Walking the woods in quest of game put Carmen back where he likes to be.

THE name Ralston Hemsley might suggest motion pictures, but in the case of the youthful catcher in the Pirate party there is nothing in common with drug store shieks, etc. When you shake Ralston's hands you think of honest toil and that sort of thing, and if you quizz the quiet lad you will learn he is a coal miner from the Pomeroy district of Ohio.

Much of the digging done by the catcher in the past winter was in a union mine, the coal being used for the comfort of the suffering miners.

CLAUDE LINTON, the other rookie catcher, is just about the best bridge player aboard. Coach Spin Stanage, a bridge rookie of last year, appears to have passed out of that class.

When the flyer reached Gallup, Thomas H. Murray, a representative of the Santa Fe road, climbed aboard to offer his services to the Pittsburghers for the remainder of the trip to Los Angeles.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Behold! Spring Is Here

NO FUN

This comes under the head of work. The New York Giants, first of the major league outfits to get into action, are seen taking their morning run over the foothills of the Ozarks at Hot Springs, Ark. Coach Roger Bresnahan, in charge of the preliminary work, is leading the chase.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

SOME weird fiction is being published in New York in connection with the comment following the recent baseball trade wherein the Pittsburgh club obtained Burleigh Grimes from the Giants in exchange for Vic Aldridge.

C. A. Stoneham

For instance, it is stated in Gotham sport columns that it was the first trade made by Barney Dreyfuss and John McGraw in 20 years, and that "a feud had existed between them ever since 1908 because McGraw thought the Pirate owner had influenced League President Harry C. Pulliam in the famous decision made when Fred Merkle failed to touch second base in the memorable play-off game between the Giants and the Cubs was upheld by Pulliam."

RARELY is fandom given so much misinformation in one dose.

In the first place, it was not in the play-off game on October 8, 1908, but in a game during the regular season, on September 23 of that year, that Merkle failed to touch second base.

In the second place, President Pulliam did not order the post-season play-off, but merely upheld the decision of Umpires Hank O'Day and Bob Emslie in ruling the game of September 23 a tie.

In the third place, it was the board of directors of the league that ordered the game played over, after hearing testimony for two days and part of one night.

IN THE fourth place, Barney Dreyfuss, though a member of the board, did not cast a vote in that tribunal's decision, inasmuch as the position of his club in the race made him an "interested party."

Vic Aldridge.

For a similar reason, President Charles W. Murphy of the Cubs, another member of the board, also did not vote.

The decision was made by the three other members of the board—Charles H. Ebbets of Brooklyn, Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati, and George Dovey of Boston.

AND the feud between President Dreyfuss and Manager McGraw did not originate from the Merkle decision at all. It begal in 1901 in-

U. S. 2nd In Winter Olympic

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The rugged athletes of Norway have successfully defended their Olympic winter sports championship. The United States finished second, Sweden third.

On the final day of competition the American contingent won the bobsleigh final yesterday, William Fiske landing first place and John Heaton second. The sleds hummed over the ice at a 60-mile-an-hour clip.

Heaton registered the fastest descent in a glide down the chute with a time of 1 minute 38 7-10 seconds, which is only 10 seconds behind the world's record for the track held by Martineau of England.

The others in the bobsled event finished as follows: Third, Paul Kilian of Germany; fourth, Gramajo of Argenetina; fifth, Hope, Argentina; sixth, Ernest Lambert, Belgium.

YANK SKATERS FOURTH

In the figure skating championship for couples, the American team of Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin Badger placed fourth. The event was won by Mlle. Andree Joly and Pierre Brunot of France. Lilli Scholtz and Otto Keiser of Austria were second and Melitta Brunner and Ludwig Wrede, also of Austria, third. Thirteen couples competed, Theresa Blanchard and Nathaniel Niles of the United States finishing last.

Although finishing sixth among the nations in the meet, Canada had little opposition in scoring a decisive victory over Switzerland by 13 to 0 to become the Olympic hockey champion. The Canadiens rolled up a total of 38 goals in the Olympic series and at the same time held all opposition scoreless. They defeated Sweden in the first of the final series on Friday by 11 to 0 and in a contest against England Saturday recorded a 14-to-0 decision.

By defeating England 3 to 1 yesterday, Sweden became the European hockey champion and acquired second place in the Olympic hockey final standing.

FINLAND SLIPS

For the meet, Finland, which had been runner-up in the previous Olympic competition, was relegated to fourth place, while Austria was fifth.

While the point scoring for teams of the various countries as practiced in the championships at Chamonix in 1924 was not adopted this year, on such a basis Norway would have received credit for 90½ points; United States, 50½; Sweden, 40; Finland, 29½; Austria, 22, and Canada, 13½. The winter sports consisted of skating, skiing, bobsledding events and hockey. The United States was not entered in hockey.

LEGION TO USE FUND

By JULIUS LEVIN.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY American Legion posts likely will play an important role in the nation-wide development campaign, arranged to stimulate interest in amateur baseball and made possible through the appropriation of $50,000 by the National and American Leagues, according to Dr. Carl E. McKee, county commander of the American Legion.

While the Allegheny county executive committee has not taken any official action concerning its plans in the national undertaking to stimulate interest in amateur baseball, Dr. McKee is certain that American Legion posts throughout the county will contribute their share toward the success of the venture.

PLAN IS FAVORED

The legionaires are very much in favor of the movement to give the youngsters an incentive to play the national pastime and likely will take some action toward helping the cause at the next meeting of the executive body.

The campaign was made possible by the advisory council of organized baseball, which contributed $50,000 to the American Legion for the purpose of sponsoring amateur baseball teams. More than 100,000 youngsters in the United States are expected to participate in the campaign. The plan calls for 10 regional championships, six in the East and four in the West. The winners in each section will be determined by an elimination process and they will meet in a "little world series."

POSTS SUPPORT TEAMS

Harry B. Bunting, one-time member of the Allegheny county executive committee, but no longer serving the American Legion in an official capacity, likewise appeared enthused over the movement to have the legion posts handle the big baseball project.

"Sponsoring amateur baseball teams in Allegheny county is not new to the members of the legion posts in this vicinity," Bunting said in an interview this morning "Many clubs have been financed and supported by legion posts in their immediate vicinity."

WEE WILLYUM DAVIES of Charleroi and Midget Wolgast, a fine broth of an Eye-talian lad from Philadelphia, are ready to tangle in the 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden tonight—and somebody is liable to get hurt.

Willie Davies.

They will be fighting it out for the third time, with Davies having a victory in the first clash under his belt and Wolgast having annexed the second. They first met at Atlantic City and the second time in Philadelphia. The State Athletic Commission says they are not fighting for the State flyweight championship, but the boxers themselves and the fans want to know what two mitt-slingers have a better right to be fighting for that honor.

Bad Weather Hits Soccer Program

By TOM BIRKS.

King Winter, with his icy blasts and treacherous fields, put practically a whole schedule of soccer sport out of commission yesterday. Swissvale did not make the trip in the National Amateur cup to Harmarville, and both the International League games featuring National Tube at Douglas and Braddock at Westinghouse were also placed on the postponed list.

A couple of junior games were played but under the conditions it might also have been advisable to also called these off.

Word has been received by President Fairfield to the effect that the National Amateur fourth-round game featuring the national champions from Heidelberg at Cleveland in opposition to the Magyars had been postponed from next Sunday to Sunday, March 4.

This means the Western Pennsylvania senior semi-final game will be staged at Westinghouse High School field between Heidelberg and the Pittsburgh Internationals on

Percy Smallwood in Pyle's Race

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Tele Sports Editor.

PERCY SMALLWOOD, former trainer of the Pittsburgh Federal League Club and the Cleveland Americans, and a great runner in the days of Tom Longboat, Dorando, Hayes and the others who made pedaling history, and a longtime resident of Pittsburgh, who has been more or less forgotten in recent years, will be one of the starters in C. C. Pyle's cross-country Marathon which starts early next month from Los Angeles.

News of Smallwood's entry comes from Bill Heckman, local manager of boxers, who is sojourning on the Coast. In a letter to the writer, Bill says he ran across Percy in Los Angeles and learned that the old boy still has sufficient confidence in his ability to step to think he has a chance to cop one of the big cash prizes. Well, there are plenty of folks here who will wish Percy luck; yep, plenty of 'em.

WE MAY expect Heckman back home almost any day now, judging from the tone of his letter. Bill recently sold his barber shop in Water street, after Tommy

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 20.—(En Route with Pirates.)—Within a few hours of their Paso Robles training camp, the advance squad of Pirates reached this city just before noon today. Donie Bush and his pitchers and catchers all were in good shape. The athletes traveling from the East arrived at Los Angeles this morning after a short layover, during which time they changed from the Santa Fe to the Southern Pacific station, the party headed northward for Paso Robles. Pitchers John Miljus, George Peery and Fred Fussell joined the squad at Los Angeles. The Pittsburgh representatives are due at their camp site about 5 o'clock (8 o'clock Pittsburgh time.)

GLAD TO END TRIP

Although the rookies and veterans thoroughly enjoyed the long ride across the continent every person in the squad is glad the jaunt is drawing to a close. Two days of sunshine marked the journey from Kansas to California, the fine weather making the trip one of enjoyment.

Manager Donie Bush has his preliminary plans all marked out. Donie will establish hard and fast training rules. During the long stay at Paso Robles the players will be in bed at 11 o'clock and they must arise by 8 in the morning. Many will not require this sort of discipline, for the rigors of training cause quite a few of the athletes to retire before the deadline and to bound out of bed as quickly as the sun gets up. For those who need rules, however, the hour play will serve as a stabilizer.

DONIE STERN BOSS

Apparently Bush will stand for few shenanigans. Donie has been around athletes long enough to-

CATCHING STAFF FOR McGRAW'S CONTENDERS

Johnny Cummings, a Pittsburgher, stands out in the receiving corps of the New York Giants. He had a big season last year and appears due for a bigger one this year. Left to right, the catchers appearing above are James Taylor, John Cummings, Alfred Spohrer, W. V. Barrett and J. Francis Hogan. Hogan was obtained from the Braves, along with Outfielder Jimmy Welsh, in the Rogers Hornsby trade.

SHOTS and PASSES

by JULIUS LEVIN

ASSURED of a place in the finals of the Allegheny Mountain Association basketball tournament, the members of the North Side Community House quintet are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the semi-final battle between the Young Men's Hebrew Association and the Pittsburgh Lancers. The victor of this contest will meet the North Siders to determine which club will succeed the Doc Gordon team as the standard bearer of the amateurs hereabouts.

Community House has been inactive insofar as tournament competition is concerned for the last few days, but has been keeping in excellent shape. The North Siders have what many consider to be the best amateur team organized in this vicinity in years and are a favorite to win the premier laurels.

ONE of the big surprises of the local amateur season has been the strong comeback of the Young Men's Hebrew Association passers, who, after an ordinary start, have gained momentum and now loom as a real menace to the North Side Community House team.

Saturday night the Y. M. H. A. quintet gained sweet revenge for a defeat suffered earlier in the season when it defeated the crack Webster Hall passers of the West Penn League to enter the semi-finals of the A. A. U. tournament. The Bellefielders have shown a big improvement in form in recent games and should they succeed in eliminating the Pittsburgh Lancers, a smooth working aggregation of stars, they will be a worthy opponent for the Community House passers.

FORCED to make numerous changes in their lineup owing to the loss of several stars, the Y. M. H. A. passers are deserving of much credit for their strong comeback. Coach Scher was forced to rebuild his floor machine owing to the loss of several stars who left the institution. The team was a little slow in striking its natural stride and as a result lost several important games at the outset. The Bellefielders, however, once they struck their natural pace, began showing real class and at the present writing rank with the outstanding amateur teams of the district.

Community House is the favorite to win the laurels this winter. Holding victories over the leading amateur teams in Western Pennsylvania, Community House, should it engage the Y. M. H. A. quintet in the finals, will be the favorite to triumph, having scored a victory over Scher's passers earlier in the season.

DRIBBLES

The J. J. Mieles will meet the McKees Rocks Business Men in a P. & O. League game at the Hamilton School tonight. St. Catherines originally was scheduled to play in McKees Rocks tonight, but asked for a postponement.

All members of the Miele club are asked to meet at Wylie avenue and Washington street tonight for the game with the McKees Rocks Business Men in McKees Rocks.

Mullen Assails N.B.A.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The latest move of the National Boxing Association in demanding $5,000 forfeits from Sammy Mandell and Mickey Walker to insure defense of their boxing titles next summer, has drawn a fiery counter-proposal from Jim Mullen, the prospective promoter of both these championship matches.

Mullen's proposition is to match the six specified challengers in each division in three bouts, the outstanding performer of the card to get the title "shot." If the N. B. A. will help him sign the contenders, Mullen offered to promote the show himself, giving each boxer 10 per cent of the gate receipts, which, he figured, would run about $50,000.

"It's funny the National Boxing Association doesn't try to do something about the heavyweight title situation, too," said Mullen. "The titleholder of the heavyweights doesn't fight oftener than once a year, and there are challengers—Sharkey and Delaney, for

En Route With Pirates to Paso Robles Camp.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 20.—Donie Bush, making the jaunt to California one year ago, stated he would prefer to go by airplane this year. He still holds the preference, but he does not find it advisable to leave his team to carry out his idea.

The Pirate squad aboard the train holds one young man who is an expert aviator. Joe Dawson had something like 400 hours of service in the air while a part of the naval aviation service during the war. Joe tells of flying a boat holding an entire football team from from San Diego to Los Angeles.

"I SURELY would like to have made the jump to the coast by driving a plane," said Dawson. Joe flew some during the winter in Florida. He considered the idea of purchasing a plane with a part of his world series share.

THE Pirate pitchers and catchers with others aboard the big train spent a delightful Sunday as their train traversed New Mexico and Arizona. The sun that shone all day was up to greet the athletes for breakfast, which was served at Gallup, N. M. An hour later the train entered Arizona.

THE San Francisco peaks in their winter clothing look down upon Flagstaff, where the train made a brief stop. The town itself has an altitude of almost 7,000 feet with the towering peaks being 6,000 feet higher. On another mountain overlooking the town is the famed Lowell Observatory.

SOCKO M'CAREY continues to be the liveliest rookie aboard. Socko has rubbed shoulders with veteran stars for so many years he is hardly a rookie, in one sense. Moreover, he is not expected to sit back and let the others talk after the fashion of the kids who are just breaking into the game.

SOCKO is a strong youngster and he stayed in fine shape through the winter by driving a taxicab. He felt so good yesterday he picked on Jewel Ens for an impromptu wrestling match. Getting away well in this mixup, Caleb then tried to cover a bit too much ground. He moved into the next car and locked with Burleigh Grimes. Socko didn't do quite so good in this tussle.

CARMEN HILL is anxious to be at it again. Carmen dropped something like 15 pounds in his

Manufacturing Spreads in All Directions

By B. C. FORBES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.

SAYS the old hymn, "Change and decay in all around I see." Change and progress all around I see.

Have you ever stopped to think of what is happening in the United States—and in certain other countries—manufacturing-wise?

IN America the East used to be the home of manufacturing, more especially New England. Cyrus McCormick's invention of the harvesting machine and George Pullman's development of the railway sleeping car proved big things for Chicago, as did the location there of packing plants by Phil Armour, Gustavus Swift, Nelson Morris and others. Chicago rapidly expanded.

The advent of the motor car sent Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and other states inland from the Atlantic seaboard shooting ahead industrially.

The Middle West, in short, began to vie with the East in industrial importance.

WHAT is going on now? Many cities in the eastern half of the South are attracting new industries on a very substantial scale. The most spectacular evolution is the migration of cotton mills from New England to the Carolinas and other sections near the raw material. The whole South, indeed, is making notable industrial progress.

On the Pacific coast this growth of industries and this migration of industries are extremely impressive. Seattle, Oakland, Portland and San Francisco are all attracting and developing manufacturing.

SO is Los Angeles. Oakland and Los Angeles strike me as the fastest growing industrial centers on the coast.

Population in Southern California has increased so swiftly that an important local consumptive market has been created. Gigantic corporations located elsewhere are establishing here branch plants for manufacturing or assembling or distributing, and local enterprises are springing up as in few cities, either eastern or western.

Did you know that Los Angeles is now the second largest rubber manufacturing center in the world? It has its well-established, locally owned Samson Tire and Rubber Company, also a large Goodyear plant, while within the last year two other leaders in rubber located here. Goodrich and Firestone both began work on plants which will represent an investment of over $10,000,000 when in operation.

FOLLOWING their aggressive national policy, the towering mail order houses have come here. Sears-Roebuck a year ago erected local assembling and distributing plants costing fully $5,000,000. Branches have been established also by Montgomery-Ward and Reid, Murdock & Co.

S. Karpen Brothers, among America's largest furniture manufacturers, started with an investment of $2,000,000, the Angelus Furniture Manufacturing Company built a $1,000,000 factory, and smaller developments in the same line have been witnessed.

PRESIDENT LITCHFIELD of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company, recently stated they are considering erecting a $1,000,000 plant here to build dirigible aircraft. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is inspecting sites for a $1,000,000 plant. Many developments are reported by automobile and truck interests, including assembly or manufacturing establishments by Ford, White Motor Truck, General Motors Truck and Denby Motor Truck.

THE revolution now under way is clearly illustrated by the wearing apparel industry. Only a few years ago everything Los Angeles needed was imported. Last year $45,000,000 worth was turned out by upwards of 10,000 workers in 300 plants. This was an increase of 40 per cent over 1924.

Bank deposits, a natural corollary, have doubled in six years. They now exceed $1,100,000,000. Increasing wealth has made it possible to float large issues of new local securities at home—an $8,500,000 offering was recently underwritten by the Citizens' National Bank for Bullock's (department store), and promptly sold to investors. Bank clearings in 1920 were under four billions; in 1922, seven billions; last year, nine and a third billions.

THIS setting up of industrial enterprises near sources of raw material or near growing centers of population is going on not only throughout the United States but in Europe, in Australia, in Africa, in India, in Canada, in Latin America.

Is the world going to prove able to buy all the prospective production? Already it has fallen behind. But will this be only temporary?

DRILLERS NEAR GOAL IN 7,000-FT. GAS WELL

KANE, Pa., Feb. 20.—A temperature of 139 degrees was recorded on instruments at a depth of 6,500 feet in the test well being drilled on the United Natural Gas Company lease, five miles south of here. The well is down 7,015 feet, and drillers hope to reach 7,030 feet, where it is believed a great gas pressure will be found. The well, one of the deepest on record, is attracting attention from scientists and geologists.

PRODUCE MARKET

Dealings at the local wholesale produce district for fruit and vegetables were rather slow today. Several changes were made in the prices of vegetables. The fruit market was slack. No change was made in the quotations.

The demand for poultry was slow and the market was easy. Live heavy hens were decreased 1c per pound. All other poultry was sold at about unchanged quotations. The supplies were liberal.

The butter, egg and cheese markets were firm. The quotations were unchanged.

Carlot supplies were fairly liberal, a total of 553 cars being on track. Arrivals included 17 cars of apples, 6 cabbage, 1 carrots, 2 cauliflower, 1 celery, 1 chicory, 1 grapefruit, 1 lemons, 11 lettuce, 12 onions, 10 oranges, 4 spinach, 31 potatoes, 5 sweet potatoes, 1 tomatoes, 5 peas and 1 parsnips.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was a little steadier early today and prices advanced 1-16c to the basis of 4.21c for Cubans, duty paid. Sales at this level were 12,000 bags of Cubans, February shipment to an operator.

Raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and some Cuban support, but eased off under increased liquidation and trade selling. At mid-day prices were 2 to 3 points net lower. The steadier spot market failed to inspire any aggressive buying, probably on account of the continued indifference on the part of local refiners, and the undertone at midday was unsettled.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.90c for fine granulated, with demand again light and of a hand-to-mouth character.

SHARES SLUMP AFTER EARLY RALLY

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The stock market went through a secondary reaction today after an early rally failed to hold. United States Steel common and several other leaders touched new lows on the current decline on setbacks of 1 to 3 points, while several of the specialties broke 4 to nearly 7 points on a renewal of bear selling and long liquidation. Trading was in larger volume than Friday, but failed to maintain the terrific pace set in Saturday's record-breaking half-holiday session.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4½ per cent, with funds offered in the outside market at 4 per cent. The day's business news also was rather colorless in character, the only items of importance being a reduction from $3 to $2.50 in the quarterly dividend on Laclede Gas, and the publication of the American Can Company report showing slightly smaller earnings per share in 1927, as compared with the year before.

United States Steel common dipped to a new low at 138⅝, but General Motors was well supported just above 133, the low price touched last week. Selling pressure was most effective against such issues as Reyonlds Tobacco B, International Business Machines, A. M. Byers, Montgomery-Ward, Radio, Colorado Fuel, International Nickel, Gold Dust and American Agricultural Chemical preferred, all of which sold down 3 or more points below last week's final quotations.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 9 to 12 points and sold 12 to 14 points net higher in early trading on covering, combined with trade and commission house buying. Offerings were comparatively light.

Demand evidently was influenced by relatively steady Liverpool cables and a rather more favorable view of reports from the cotton goods trade, based partly upon the increased business reported in gray goods for last week. Some liquidation of March contracts in preparation for possible notices on Friday was readily absorbed, and the market held within a point or two of the best at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported that continental buying and trade calling had absorbed hedges in Liverpool. Cloth business in India was said to be developing slowly, but the cables reported a fair demand from the continent and South America.

The early advance to 18.25c for May and 18.18c for October was checked by realizing of liquidation. May sold off to 18.11c and October to 18.06c, close to Saturday's last quotations, but the volume of business tapered off at the decline, the market was quiet and the tone fairly steady around mid-day. Part of the selling was attributed to pre-holiday evening-up, while buying on the setback appeared to be encouraged by reports of a steady spot situation in the South.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

White Motor Halves Dividend.

The White Motor Company declared a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, payable March 31 to record of March 15. The last previous disbursement was 50 cents a share. Preliminary figures show a net loss of about $923,000 for the 12 months ended December 31, 1927. In the opinion of directors, the strong cash position of the company justified payment of a 25-cent dividend for the first quarter of 1928 out of accumulated surplus, it was officially stated.

Loree Sees Average Year.

L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, is mildly optimistic regarding the current year. "I should say that 1928 will be an average year," he declared. "I think you have to discount the effect of the first five months, but that will bring it down to an average. We are feeling the effect of the things that happened last year—the Mississippi flood, the bad cotton crop and the poor wheat crop." Unlike many business leaders, Mr. Loree does not think that the stock market is in for a bad reaction. "The stock market," he said, "is a creature of conditions. It is not a creator. I should think that it would reflect the business conditions of the country. If—as I think—business is going to improve, the stock market should improve."

Margin Responses Mixed.

Many margin calls were sent out after the close Friday. The responses were mixed. Some additional funds were deposited with brokers by clients while others either put stops in the holdings near the existing levels or sold out stocks to protect others which they had decided to hold. As is usual in such cases the stocks showing the minimum of losses were disposed of, while those that had suffered sharp declines were held. This has occurred many times in past years during similar markets and makes for greater weakness in some of the leaders than is justified in comparisons with the more speculative and over" exploited issues.

—I—

Railroad Issues.

It is felt in many quarters that railroad stocks are safest for those who are out of the market and are anxious to take a long position on a scale. The contention is made that rails encounter liquidation much earlier than most industrials, and their technical position therefore is considered stronger than other stocks. Scale buying of some of the standard dividend paying rails has been recommended because it is believed the initial recovery in the market may come in this group and then spread to others.

P. R. R. Freight Movement.

For the four weeks' period from January 1 to January 28, 1928, loaded cars handled by the Pennsylvania Regional System amounted to 432,145 compared with 497,171 in corresponding period of 1927, a decrease of 65,026 cars, or 13.0 per cent. For the four weeks ended December 31, 1927, carloadings totaled 501,-144 compared with 677,234 in corresponding period of 1926, a decrease of 176,090, or 26 per cent. That carloadings are a good index is shown by detailed statement of operations for December showing freight revenues of $31,512,530 to compare with $40,526,716 in December, 1926, decrease $9,013,786, or nearly 24 per cent. Including passenger receipts and incidental revenues, the total gross for December was $47,353,486 to compare with $58,757,255 in preceding year, a decrease of $10,742,769, or more than 18 per cent.

Doubts Rubber Pact.

There is little likelihood that Dutch rubber growers will join the British in an attempt to save the Stevenson restriction plan, in the opinion of F. R. Henderson, president of the Rubber Exchange of New York. While a few of the Dutch producers may be negotiating with British interests toward this end, it is not believed any merger of the producing interests of the two countries on a large scale is possible, he says.

This compares with $1,772,-403, or $1.85 a share, on 827,343 common shares outstanding in 1926. Fred Glover, president says: "While earnings from the axle business reflect the falling off of earnings of automotive industry generally, the oil burner business looks encouraging. We have developed a new and simplified burner and are now ready to put it on the market."

—I—

Chevrolet Motor Car.

February schedule of Chevrolet Motor Car Company calls for production of 113,475 units as against 85,000 in February, 1927. It appears that actual production this month will exceed the tentative schedule by a comfortable margin, according to W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager. Tentative plans for March call for building of more than 127,000 units. All previous January production records were shattered last month, when output totaled 91,544, compared with 73,476 units in January, 1927, and 46,457 in January, 1926. January production was exceeded by only four other months in the history of the company. To date more than 125,000 units of the new Chevrolet line have been sold at retail in the United States.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

FIREPROOF PFD. HOLDS FIRM

Prices were steady and trading was moderately active at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. First quotations in the general list showed no material changes from the prices prevailing on the close Saturday.

Publication of the National Fireproofing Company's earnings statement for 1927, showing a substantial decline in net profit as compared with the previous year, was not reflected in the stock. Quotations on the common and preferred were unchanged. Present level of both issues, however, is considerably lower than a few weeks ago, the decline in the meantime having discounted the report issued today.

Carnegie Metals held steady around Saturday's closing price with several hundred shares changing hands. Current quotations on Carnegie are about 5 points under the peak reached a few weeks ago when the stock ran up on reports that the company planned to reopen its mine at Cananea, Mexico.

Standard Sanitary sagged slightly to a new low for the current movement, but there was no heavy selling of the stock. Pittsburgh Plate Glass sold again at 220, the price to which it receded Saturday after having been up to 225. Other glass issues were dull. Fuels were also dull, with no important price changes noted.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Buying for houses with European and Eastern connections lifted wheat prices early today to the highest point since the first part of December. Reports of food scarcity in Russia appeared to be acting as a decided incentive to purchase. Opening ⅜@1⅛c to ¾c up, wheat later scored additional gains. Corn rallied with wheat, starting unchanged to ¼c off but subsequently showing a general advance. Oats were firm. Provisions also tended upward.

Emphasizing the bullish effect today of reports that rationing of food is in progress in Russia and that stocks of leading articles are very small, advices were also at hand that world shipments of wheat had fallen off to a material extent in the last week. Furthermore, domestic winter wheat crop prospects were construed in some quarters as unfavorable and Eastern mills were again buyers.

Favorable weather for the movement of corn eased the corn market today at the start. Sympathy with wheat strength, however, acted later as more than a counter-balance and the July delivery of corn rose to $1 a bushel. Besides, the amount of corn on ocean passage was shown to be more than 10,000,000 bushels under the total at this time last year.

MELLON'S AIDE FREED IN AUTO DEATH

Andrew Brice, of 925 Jackman avenue, Avalon, secretary to W. L. Mellon, was exonerated today by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Sarah A. Meloney, 73, of 1623 Orchlee street, fatally injured by a car Brice was driving at California avenue and Orchlee street, February 3.

Testimony disclosed that Mrs. Meloney and her husband, William A. Meloney, 75, stepped from behind a parked car directly in front of Brice's auto and that the accident was unavoidable. H. L. and F. C. GROTE, Attorneys-at-Law, Frick Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
IN THE Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania. In re application for satisfaction of mortgage: No. 1081, April Term, 1928.

To the Security Building and Loan Association of Homestead, Pa., or whoever may be the holder of said mortgage, take notice:

That Hermann L., Ludwig I. and Frederick C. Grote, trustees under the Deed of Trust of C. H. Grote, have filed a petition in the aforesaid court, at the above number and term, setting forth among other things, that they are the owners of certain real estate situate on Fifteenth avenue, Borough of Homestead, Allegheny county, Pa., bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot No. 20 in the plan of the sub-division of Lot No. 746 in the plan of the Homestead Bank and Life Insurance Company, as recorded in Plan Book Vol. 5, pages 290 and 291, and said sub-division plan in Plan Book Vol. 6, page 238, of the Recorder's Office of Allegheny county, said Lot No. 20 being bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning on the southeasterly side of Fifteenth Avenue at the distance of 57.28 feet southwardly from the corner of West street; thence extending in front or width on Fifteenth avenue southwardly 25 feet to Lot No. 21 in said sub-division plan; thence along the line of said Lot No. 21 southeastwardly 91.21 feet to land of West; thence along land of said West northwestwardly 25.3 feet to Lot No. 19 in said sub-division plan; thence along the line of said Lot No. 19 northwestwardly 89.84 feet to the place of beginning.

That there appears on the records of the Recorder's Office of Allegheny county against said property an unsatisfied mortgage, originally given by Patrick Sweeney to the Security Building and Loan Association of Homestead, Pa., and is dated May 18, 1891, acknowledged May 18, 1891, and recorded May 21, 1891, in Mortgage Book Vol. 559, page 495.

The said mortgage, which has been paid, still stands in the name of the Security Building and Loan Association of Homestead, Pa., which has long since gone out of business, and the residence, whereabouts or location of the said holder of the said mortgage, or its officers, is unknown; that there now exists the legal presumption of the payment of the mortgage by reason of the lapse of time, yet no satisfaction appears on the record thereof; that the period of twenty-one years and upwards has elapsed since the principal of the said mortgage became due and payable, and no payment on account of either principal or interest has been made within that period on said mortgage, and no demand has been made therefor by anyone.

Wherefore the court made the following order:

"ORDER OF COURT.

"And now, to-wit: January —, 1928, the within petition presented in open court and upon consideration thereof, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed that the Sheriff of Allegheny county serve a notice, stating the facts set forth in the said petition, upon the holder of the said mortgage, if to be found in the said county, and if not so found, then to give public notice by advertisement in one or more newspapers published within the said county once a week for four weeks successively prior to the next term of court, requiring said party to appear at said term and answer the petition as aforesaid, or show cause why satisfaction of said mortgage should not be entered of record as prayed for."

That the said Robert M. Kennedy transferred and assigned the above mortgage by deed of assignment, dated June 19, 1884, acknowledged June 19, 1884, and recorded June 19, 1884, in Mortgage Book Vol. 331, page 113, to John Du Bois, who has since died, his estate being in the hands of John E. OH, WELL THE EASIEST WAY IS BEST. BY THIS TIME TOMORROW HENRY AND MABEL WILL BE GONE.
IF WE DIDN'T KNOW HOW TO HANDLE PROFESSIONAL VISITORS THESE FOLKS WOULD BE HERE AT LEAST ANOTHER MONTH, AND INSTEAD OF GENTLY PUSHING THEM OUT OF THE PICTURE WE'D HAVE TO START A BIG ARGUMENT TO GET RESULTS.

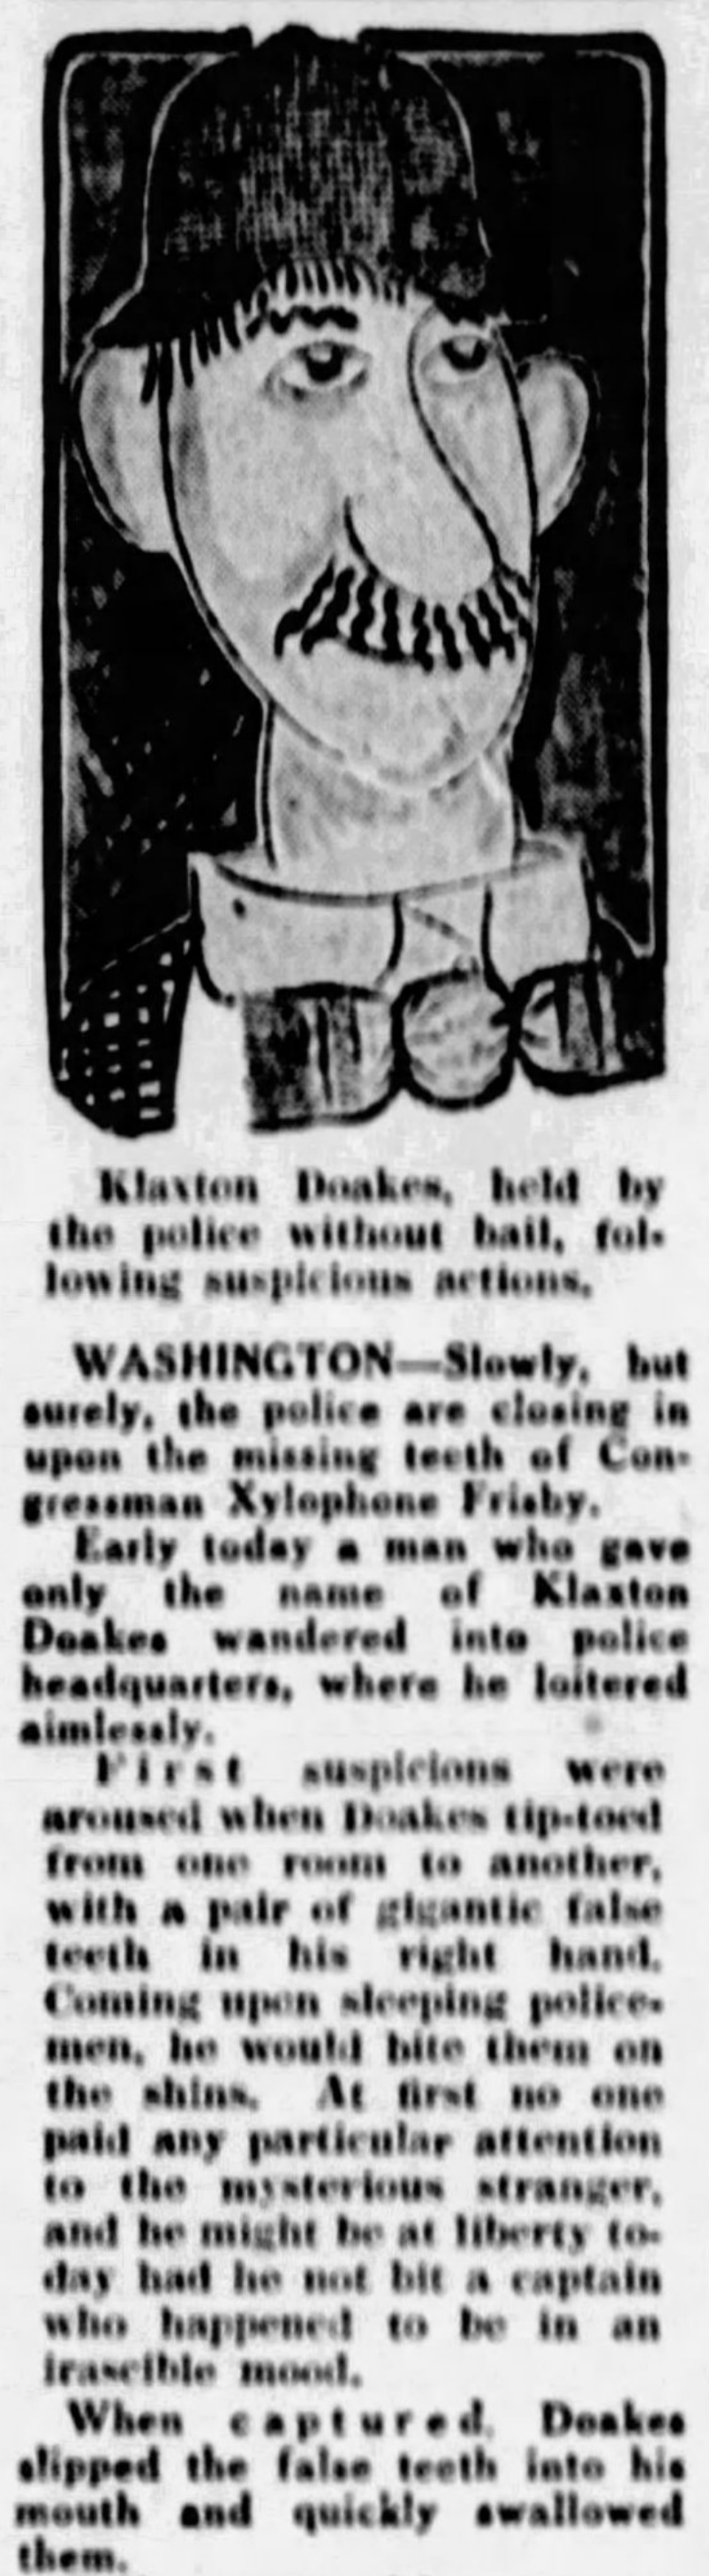
SUSPECT CAPTURED IN FRISBY MYSTERY!



Klaxton Doakes, held by the police without bail, following suspicious actions.

WASHINGTON—Slowly, but surely, the police are closing in upon the missing teeth of Congressman Xylophone Frisby.

Early today a man who gave only the name of Klaxton Doakes wandered into police headquarters, where he loitered aimlessly.

First suspicions were aroused when Doakes tip-toed from one room to another, with a pair of gigantic false teeth in his right hand. Coming upon sleeping policemen, he would bite them on the shins. At first no one paid any particular attention to the mysterious stranger, and he might be at liberty today had he not bit a captain who happened to be in an irascible mood.

When captured, Doakes slipped the false teeth into his mouth and quickly swallowed them.

Police are awaiting a report from the X-ray department.

ON "WATCH THAT PAINTER."

When an ARTIST paints a Picture, each picture, in Turn, gets his UNDIVIDED Attention. This, too, is Self-expression!
Yet when the PICTURE is Finished, he is RARELY
Satisfied, for although he Has given it ALL he had,
And done the BEST he could,
It rarely MEASURES up to His original CONCEPTION.
So he takes another
SUBJECT and starts all over
AGAIN. Women who wonder why
Some men TIRE might find this Is the ANSWER. Al though it's Unpleasant! The IDEAL
Woman is ever unattainable.
A woman, therefore, should GIVE
The artist her SYMPATHY,
But withhold her HEART.
Otherwise, in the end,
Like his PAINTINGS, she will
Be but one of an interesting
COLLECTION.

BUGS BAER Says

TODAY'S lesson will be on the horrors of diplomacy.

America is willing to eliminate poison gas, submarines and other aids to immortal and eternal beauty.

England is perfectly agreeable, but claims that the submarine is the sole defense of the small nation.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

The Turks and the Bulgarians do not require submarines so long as there is a tree to climb, but will the Venetians give up their gondola attacks on the American tourist?

The most powerful weapon that Turkey has is its coffee. The United States can counter-attack with denatured alcohol and ten million feet of weekly news reels.

Quite a few nations have announced their disarmament, but putting your shotgun in the umbrella rack doesn't make it a walking stick.

There are five million men singing the Volga Boat song; they are carrying fishing poles and picnic plates.

But something tells us that this is too big a mob to be a basket party.

There are still sixty passenger tanks in Australia. They may be the new 1928 pleasure cars, but there is a better chance of them being business trucks.

There have been kind words and friendly nods at recent conferences. We all agree that war is terrible, but we refuse to sell the fixtures with the good will.

When the big nations become fatherly and allow the little countries to keep their submarines it means that the next war will be fought on land.

The peace commissioners radiate good cheer and ultra-violet hokum, but they cannot give us chocolate-coated grenades and make us think it is candy.

Col. Bob Ingersoll told the story of peace years ago. The animals had agreed to stop mauling one another. The wolf sat under a roost the next day and tried to coax the rooster down.

"We're all at peace now," said the wolf, "come down for a romp."

Just then the baying of a hound was heard and the wolf started to lope over the hills.

"Hang around and play with the hound," the rooster said, "we are all at peace now."

"I know it," said Mr. Wolf, "but there is always some darn fool who hasn't heard the good news."

Why Does Not Senate Want Power Trust Investigated?

WHY does not the Senate want the power trust investigated?

Where does the trail of the power trust lead that the Senate does not want it followed?

The oil trust investigation disclosed scandal and corruption which involved some of the most conspicuous figures in public life. It showed that money had been used to corrupt public officials, to finance party campaigns, and to put elected officials under heavy obligations to law-breaking corporations, and to disloyal, dishonest financial and political speculators.

There is every reason to believe that an investigation of the power trust will show even a slimier trail of corrupt influence and political debauchery. Why does not the Senate want the trail uncovered?

Is it because the elections are at hand and the time is ripe for campaign contributions from the great privilege-seeking trusts? Or is it because the trail leads to the door of public officials whom the Senators have reason to protect?

Why does the Senate desire to shield the vicious power trust lobby? The President did not hesitate to attack these demoralizing, these treasonable lobbies.

Why should the Senate protect them? There must be a reason. What is it?

Neutrality of Governor May as Well Continue

Gov. Fisher's "silent neutrality" in the bituminous fields might as well continue. A branch of the Federal government has taken up the problems that the Governor might have made a gesture toward handling, anyway, so it is just as well that his hands-off policy be maintained to the end. The United States Senate will take up the work the Governor shrank from attacking.

His determination that the law shall be enforced with impartiality will meet with approval, but it was not necessary for him to make that point prominent in his conference with members of his official family in Harrisburg. He took an oath to that effect when he assumed office and a reaffirmation of his pledge scarcely was needed. As a substitute for constructive activity on the part of the state in the coal fields it lacked considerable in the matter of substance.

We hope the Governor will give some attention to the protest of citizens of Broughton and Bruceton against the state police report that union miners were primarily to blame for the recent shootings in that district. The statement of these disinterested persons puts the responsibility for the disorder on the strike-breakers and coal and iron police.

Empty Ballot Boxes Show Evidence of Two Crimes

Discovery of another empty ballot box from Pittsburgh among those figuring in the Senate recount of the Vare-Wilson vote, the third instance of the kind since the probe opened, contains a significance that should impress both honest voters and law enforcement officials.

Empty ballot boxes are prima facie evidence of two crimes. First, that there was fraud in connection with tabulation of the vote. Second, that the law was again broken in removing evidence of the original crime from the ballot box.

The law provides that, at the close of an election, the ballot boxes be delivered at a place designated for their storage, or, if no place has been designated by the county, to the office of the nearest justice of the peace. At the next election time, when the box is again needed, the ballots of the preceding election are to be removed and destroyed—and NOT UNTIL THEN.

Hence, the evidence of two crimes is presented when an empty ballot box appears at any time before the morning of an election. The proper authorities will be expected to look into that angle of the situation.

To the decent citizen, the Washington revelations are another argument in favor of the voting machine.

Olympic Games Beat War

It will take $400,000 to send to Holland next summer the athletes who are to compete in the Olympic games.

A few rich men could give this sum, but it seemed wiser to Murray Hulbert, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, to ask for many small contributions, thus widening the interest.

Here is a clean and wholesome form of sport lifted to a world basis of competition—a fine substitute for war. Every good American should wish to see his country worthily represented.

Each meeting of picked nationals in friendly contests of skill makes for better feeling and therefore for peace. The Hulbert idea for popular financing deserves cordial support.

Flight to Australia

Important to White Race Survival.

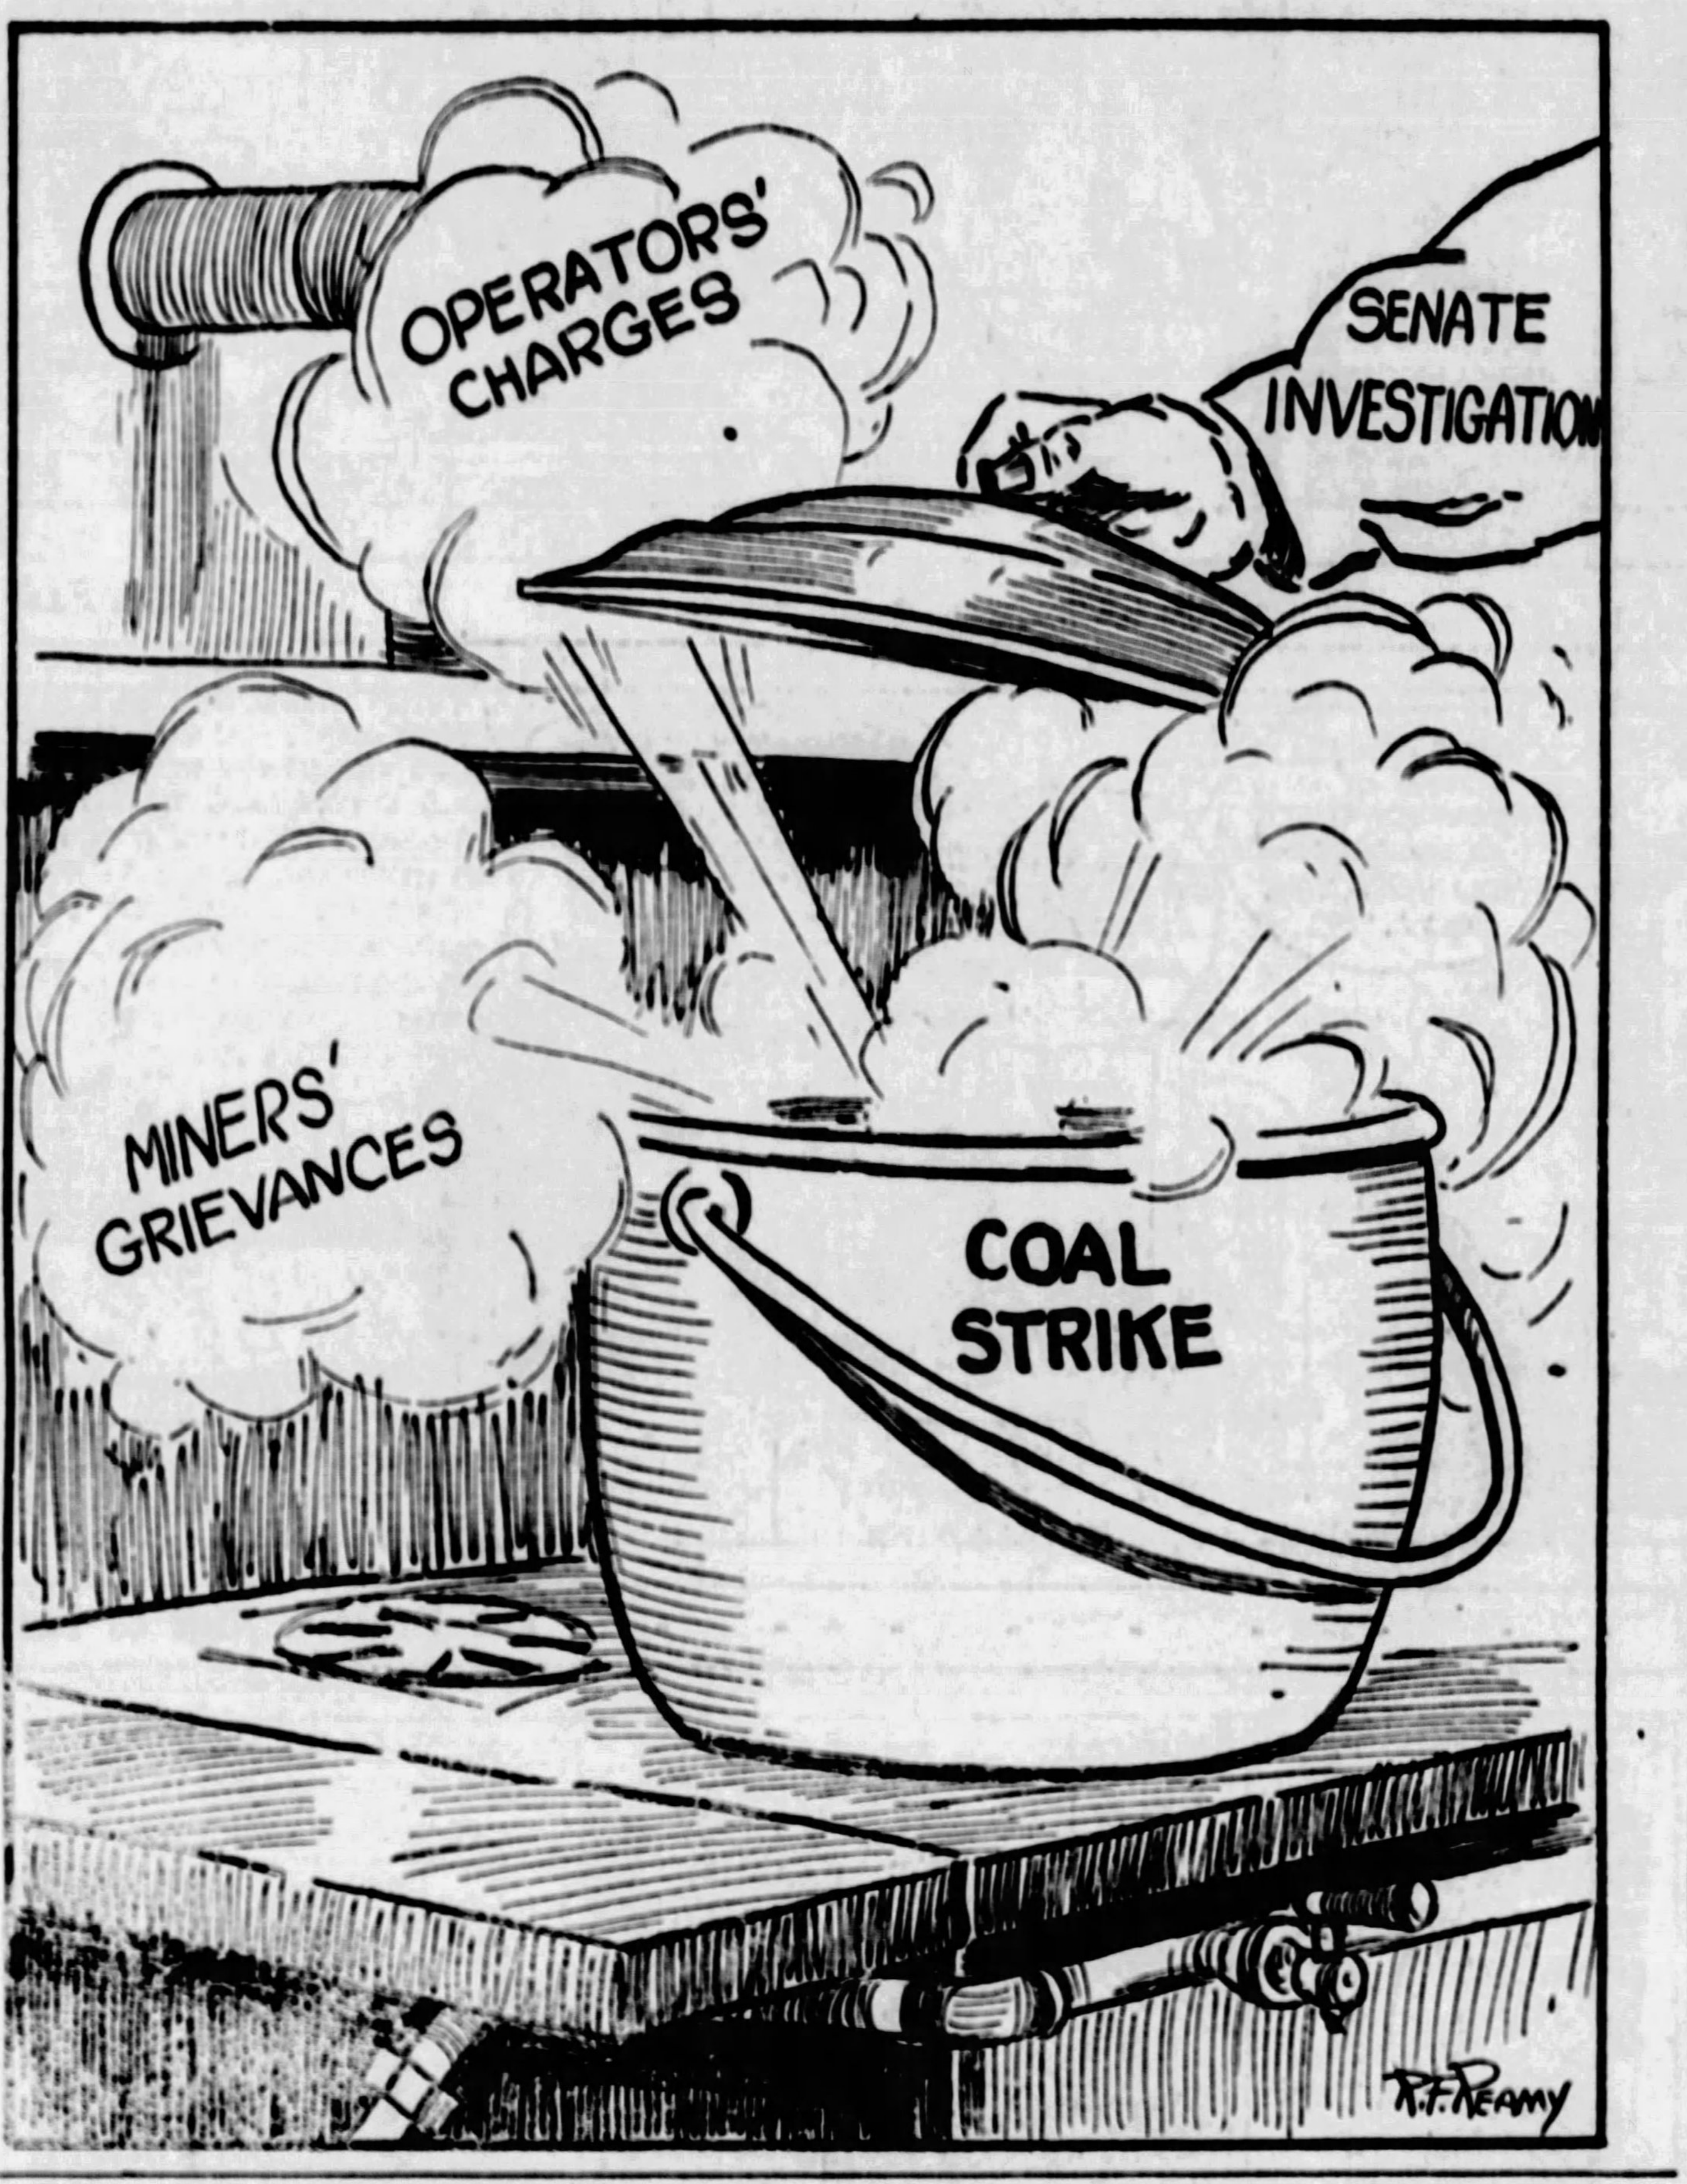
Very important to white race supremacy and survival is the plan of Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British, to fly to Honolulu from San Francisco as the first leg of a flight to New Zealand.

Today a handful of white people, inhabiting gigantic Australia and New Zealand, live under the shadow of Asia, and their great stretches of unused land tempt the Asiatics.

But, once the flying machines of Britain and America established air lines to the big island continent underneath the world, all danger from Asia will cease.

Domination of the world will go to the best fliers. And the best fliers will be produced by the scientific white races, let us hope, for the sake of our own survival.

TAKING OFF THE LID



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Racing the Sun

"If an aviator could travel at the same speed as the earth revolves, traveling from east to west and starting from a given point on the equator on a Monday noon, when would he again arrive at that point, and would he be always in the daylight?—M. G."

SINCE he would keep up with the sun, it would be always noon for him, if he started at noon. He would return to the starting point in twenty-four hours; but while it would seem to him to be the same noon that he started with, yet the people who had remained at the starting point would call it Tuesday noon instead of Monday noon. This is because in order to keep the days of the week running in regular order we have to change the name of the day at the end of every twenty-four hours.

The reckoning of world time starts on the meridian of Greenwich, and it is twelve hours from that meridian, counting around westward, to the counter meridian on the opposite side of the globe. So, noon at Greenwich corresponds to midnight on the counter meridian. It is far more convenient to change the name of the day at midnight than at noon, therefore the change is made on the meridian opposite to Greenwich. That meridian runs through the middle of the Pacific Ocean, which is another reason for changing the day there, because there are no inhabitants to be confused by a change of name made in the middle of the busy hours of the day.

In order to keep up with the sun, an aviator traveling along the equator would have to have a speed of about 1,000 miles an hour.

It is quite possible, if the improvement of airplanes continues that the time will soon come when an ace like Lindbergh could play some remarkable stunts with Father Time. For instance, if he should travel with a speed only one-third that of the sun, starting at daybreak, say from Paris at the summer solstice, when the daytime is longest (sixteen hours out of the twenty-four), and traveling directly west, he would have twenty-four hours of continuous sunshine. For when he started the sun would be eight hours behind, i. e. to the east of him, and noon could not occur for him until the sun overtook him.

As the sun would gain two hours out of every three, it would require twelve hours to come up with Lindbergh and make noon for him. His forenoon then would have been extended to twelve hours' length. The afternoon would be equally stretched out, so that by the time the sun set for Lindbergh he would have had twenty-four hours of sunshine. During that time he would have traveled from Paris to the center of the State of Washington, one-third of the circuit of the globe, while the sun would have gone completely around and arrived again where it was when Lindbergh started his journey.

The Scandalmonger

EVIL rumors are rampant any time you want to listen to them.

And many times when you don't want to listen they come to your ears.

Perhaps the person talked about is a good friend, or merely an acquaintance.

What do you do about it?

Go out and peddle it, of course, adding that you cannot prove it or you do not believe it, but you tell it, don't you?

And the one to whom you gave the bit of gossip tells the next one, and adds your name as well as your informant's to the morsel.

You would object to being called a scandal-monger.

But haven't you been responsible for the circulation of many evil rumors, among your friends?

These rumors are never told twice alike.

They grow as they spread; don't assist in their circulation.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

PINE needles in a gray-hued pillow here:
The long room fades, the air grows fresh and clear.
In place of hearth-fire's cheery, dancing blaze
I see the pine's green-etched, deep-shadowed maze,
And ever through the swaying branches creeps
A song, a sigh like that of ocean's deeps.
The red bird's note drifts, resonant and sweet,
And sunlight's shafts spread gold beneath my feet.
Pine needles in a gray-hued pillow bring
The woodland's spell of song and sun and wing.

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.: Will you kindly write of one who is thinking always of others. Recently there came her seventieth birthday and before its arrival she had planned a festive day. A list of seventy guests—one for each year—relatives and friends, both young and old, were to be honored at one of our leading hotels. And then, suddenly, she changed her mind and tore up the list and instead of the party to her friends and relatives she was hostess at another party made up of the ninety adult inmates of a local institution.
K. H.

MY DEAR K. H.
WHEN I hear of a woman.
LIKE THIS FRIEND of yours.
MY MIND goes back.
TO ANOTHER woman.
WHOM I once knew.
WHO HAD lived her allotted.
THREE SCORE and ten.
AND WHO had an idea.
THAT WHATEVER of time.
SHOULD BE left to her.
COULD BEST be spent.
IN SEEKING ways.
AND PROVIDING the means.
OF BRINGING joy.
TO WHOMSOEVER.
SHE SHOULD determine.
WERE DESERVING of it.
AND SHE hadn't gone far.
WHEN HER relatives.
AROSE and said.
SHE HAD lost her mind.
AND WAS dissipating.
WHATEVER THE wealth.
THAT SHE possessed.
AND SO far did they go.
THAT A court was asked.
TO APPOINT someone.
TO LOOK after her.
AND STILL today.
WHEN THE hearing was done.
* * *
I CAN see the judge.
* * *
AS HE looked from the bench.
AND CAN hear his voice.
AS HE ordered dismissal.
OF THE complaint.
AND ADDED a wish.
THAT THE world held more.
OF WOMEN like her.
AND BEING a just.
AND HUMAN judge.
HE TOOK a rap.
AT THE relatives.

I THANK you.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late in a languor and came a fellow celebrating his birthday and so foxed with liquor he alternately sobbed and laughed. Nor could I get rid of him and he slept until nightfall on a couch, snoring lustily and departing sheepishly.

So to a gathering where arose a discussion writers cannot become rich albeit it seems to me Rex Beach, George Ade, Rupert Hughes, Kathleen Norris, Edna Ferber and others too numerous to mention do fairly well. This day I articled to buy petrol cart.

In the evening to dinner with my wife and among those at different tables were John Willys, the auto merchant, Gloria Swanson and the heir to the duchy of Argyle. Late to bed.

Magazines used to be conducted entirely by crusty gentlemen well up in years. Editorial judgment was believed to be the fruit of ripe experience. Twenty-five years ago there were no magazine editors under fifty, and the majority were in their sixties.

Today youth is in the saddle and riding hard. Otis Wiese at 22 is editor-in-chief of McCall's. H. N. Swanson, not yet 30, is editorial director of College Humor. With one or two exceptions editors of important magazines are under 50. Three magazines in the past year have been launched by men in their twenties.

Publishers claim that with youth at the helm magazines become more pliable and new talent has a better chance. And perhaps they recall Alexander, Napoleon, Shelley and some of the younger boys.

This is the story of the long shot that won and proved to a philandering husband, at least, there is still a good sport or so in the world. He arrived home at 4 a. m. a little pie-eyed, to find his wife in tears. She insisted upon knowing where he had been. You may know how it is.

He concocted a dandy story of having been with a well-known man. She was doubtful and determined to learn the truth by calling the man at his home. "Either you call him and verify your story or I shall," she delivered in a voice as cold as a pawnbroker's heart.

He played the long shot and called the number of the man he knew only by reputation. A sleepy voice answered. "Sorry to trouble you," began the husband, "but I arrived home so late after my evening with you that my wife doesn't believe a word I say."

"Put her on the telephone," said the voice, while the husband's knees imitated castanets. She took up the receiver. He said: "I am sorry, madam, to have kept your husband so late, but we discussed so many interesting things the time flew. It will never happen again. Let me speak to your husband." And a soft voice warned: "See that it never happens again."

It is estimated 10,000 men and women in the so-called Tenderloin depend upon "out-guessing the ponies" for a livelihood. They are the prey of handbooks—living on the fat of the land today and crumbs tomorrow, but never losing faith. In cafes at dusk they bend over the racing forms, studying the past performances and their chatter seems the pale voice of an impossible hope. Very few ever turn from the uneven chances. Most of them have drifted from paying jobs to indulge the leisure of morning sleeping and late hours. They live in a false world of high excitement but little profit, and with this they are content.

The Stars in Their Courses

By DR. FRANK CRANE

On one occasion it was said of a general of old that "the stars in their courses fought against Sisera."

That is to say, he had pitted himself against the universe, he had bucked the cosmic laws, and in the end they were sure to win out against him.

Whoever commits a crime has set himself against the universe. That universe operates according to certain laws and these laws are relentless in their operation. A wise man is one who learns how to work with them and a fool is one who thinks he can succeed against them.

This was illustrated the other day in the case of Hickman, who is guilty of the most depraved and outrageous crime that we can recall in the history of the country.

He kidnaped a little girl and promised to return her upon the payment of $1,500. He did return her, but it was her dismembered body. He had cruelly slain and mutilated her for no reason except for the gratification of an unnatural and cruel lust for blood.

When he attempted to get away all organized society co-operated against him. The newspapers, the telegraph, the radio, besides every man and woman in the region, were alert to catch him. In the end he was nabbed in a distant city.

The simplest peasant who obeys his conscience and resolutely sticks to doing right is wiser than the most learned sage who thinks he can do wrong and succeed.

The root reason is that the man who is right is linked up with God and the universe. The stars in their courses are his friends, but the man who does wrong never knows from whence some unlooked-for enemy shall come forward and undo him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON.

You Refuse Success

IF someone came to you with Power and Charm and Wisdom heaped like glowing fruits on a golden platter, would you refuse them? Of course you wouldn't—you'd grab for them.

YET EVERY DAY POWER AND CHARM AND WISDOM ARE OFFERED TO YOU, AND YOU REFUSE THEM.

For example—there was that book on American history which some one gave you for Christmas.

That book was an OPPORTUNITY. It was an opportunity to acquire an entirely new viewpoint on your country and your place in your country. The facts in that book would have amazed you—shaken scores of cobwebby old prejudices out of your brain—broadened you immeasurably—made you more honest, more fair, more generous, more tolerant—a better, wiser, more sophisticated human being.

But—

You glanced at the book and it looked like dry reading. It would be just like going to school again. GOSH!

So you haven't read that new book. And you probably still believe that Washington never told a lie.

You've passed up a thousand opportunities in just the same way. Putting things off. Making excuses to yourself. And all the time you are bitterly envious of the people who are succeeding.

"Lucky devils," you say to yourself. "If only I had their chance—"

YOU HAVE THEIR CHANCE. THE CHANCE TO BUY WISDOM AND STRENGTH BY HARD WORK, PATIENCE AND DETERMINATION.
